Let Hoover Manage
Questions for Edison
A Merger Needed
Japan's Mighty Growth

By Arthur Brisbane

PATRIOTS IN CONGRESS advertise their generosity by suggesting ways for disposing of public monies.

Fortunately President Hoover, who has spent efficiently in charity more money than anybody that ever lived, is in the White House, to discourage the would-be squanderers.

Bills already introduced would cost Uncle Sam four billion five hundred million dollars.

With "unemployment" for its excuse, the cost would be more than the total cost of government for a year.

Congress should let President Hoover plan appropriations actually necessary and meet emergencies as they occur, supporting him loyally, not as a partisan, but as a public national matter.

Next week the Rev. A. K. Shields, head of New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, will put six questions on prohibition to Thomas A. Edison, who is a dry. Mr. Edison says of Dwight W. Morrow:

"Morrow knows nothing of the business and industrial world. He has been cooped up in his office and away from the working man."

Senator Morrow might ask Mr. Edison three questions: First—Has prohibition stopped the drinking of whiskey and is whiskey worse or better than it was?

Second—Did boys and girls, including high school children, drink whiskey before prohibition came as they do now? Third—Has crime increased or diminished under prohibition?

News that a so-called "billion dollar merger" of four New York banks has been called off is more important than appears in the mere announcement.

The importance will develop later unless some kind of an absorbing and protecting merger is accomplished.

In spite of earthquakes, tidal waves, and restricted territory, census returns show that Japan's population is 64,557,000, more than four million increase in five years.

Greater Tokio, with a population of 4,968,000, is the world's third city. Including suburbs, Japan's population is 80,000,000.

A great, powerful people the Japanese. What would be their number had they been able to spread unrestricted on our Pacific coast?

Gen. Atterbury complains justly of an Interstate Commerce decision forbidding the Pennsylvania Railroad to hold a control in the Lehigh Valley and Wabash Railroads.

At this time especially, the government, which finds it difficult to help business, should at least not interfere with it.

Big industrial and other units are the order of the day and objects of more economizing.

The country should have one great railroad system operated by the widest men, as it has one postoffice system and one telephone system.

Since that is impossible, government should not keep railroads chopped up into innumerable small inefficient blocks.

Gen. Atterbury might ask the Supreme Court to decide the issue.

Railroads are having trouble enough without being subjected to unnecessary interference.

Mr. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, says that government lending money to buy human food is "perilously near" the dole.

On the other hand allowing many people to be hungry might bring you "perilously near" to dangerous rioting or something worse.

The dole is humiliating to those that receive, expensive to taxpayers that provide.

The Briton, grown wise by watching the mistakes of others, knows that the important thing is to keep human beings fed. Then you can manage them.

You will be told by the ignorant, and those that reject real science in favor of some substitute, that "germs and microbes" are all nonsense, everything being "in the mind."

The authorities of a hospital had no such theory, fortunately. Five patients died, strangely, immediately after operations. Investigation showed that a sterilizing machine employed in the operating room had insufficient steam heat and streptococci and staphilococci on operating room linen passed through it unharmed and killed the patients with whom they came in contact.

Democrats Charge He Spends Millions for Trusts, Uses Marines Illegally

Washington, Dec. 10—Democrats renewed their assault upon President Hoover today for his denunciation of non-administration relief measures as the emergency $110,000,000 appropriation for public works waited a final vote.

Senator McKellar (D), Tennessee, said the Hoover statement charging proponents of extra relief bills with "playing politics at the expense of human misery" was "unworthy of the Chief Magistrate of this nation and of any politician."

"If he is worthy of his office, he will apologize to the Senate," the Tennessean continued. "If he is unworthy, he will not apologize."

McKellar said:

Pass President's Relief Bill NOW

GENTLEMEN of the Congress of the United States:

Sidetrack the World Court and all foreign foolishness and get back to Mr. Hoover's plan to put men to work.

Do not quibble about the amount of the proposed appropriation or about whether more should go to the farmers or more to the workers.

Pass Mr. Hoover's measure.

If the farmers need more later, Senator Borah, give them more.—LATER.

They would like to have the amount of the appropriation now.

Half a loaf is better than no bread.

If the white collar men need a special appropriation later, Senator Walsh, get it for them, but pass Mr. Hoover's appropriation NOW.

Do not forget, either, Senator Walsh, that when laborers are put to work, material and machines are needed, and the companies which supply the materials and the machines employ the white collar men as clerks and bookkeepers and office help.

Set the wheels of industry turning and the white collar men will have plenty of jobs.

PASS Mr. Hoover's appropriation measure now, gentlemen of the Congress.

Vote for it whether you be Democrats or Republicans.

Relieving the financial depression is not a Republican program or a Democratic program. It is a patriotic program.

Put the workingmen to work. They will have to be fed. The farmers will profit by that.

Put the workingmen to work. They will have to be supplied with materials and machines. Manufacture will profit by that.

Put the workingmen to work. They will then have the money to buy clothes and shoes and groceries, and some things for the wife and children and some furniture for the home. Trade will profit by that.

Put the workingmen to work and trade will profit, and manufacture will profit, and the producers of raw material on the farms and in the mines will profit, and the wheels of industry will hum, and the white collar men will be employed checking up the expenditures and the receipts and the PROFITS.

Money will circulate, dividends will be declared, confidence will be restored.

PUT the workingmen to work, gentlemen of the Congress of the United States.

Do not be politicians. Be patriots.

Do not think of your party. Think of your country.

Do not think of yourselves. Think of the public.

Act wisely. Act liberally. Act quickly.

FEAR 2 GIRLS MISSING IN $100,000 BLAZE

Celluloid Blaze Races Over 4 Stories of Factory; Smoke Routs Workers Nearby

A four-alarm fire raced through the entire four stories of the building at 18 Essex st. this afternoon, drove out 20 persons, including 10 girls, and for a time threatened the entire district and whole establishments.

One man was overcome and was carried out by fellow-workers, while smoke pouring into adjacent buildings forced several score other men and women to flee into the streets.

The fire started in celluloid used for making handles in the Economy Umbrella Manufacturing Co., occupants of the structure, and this accounted for the rapid spread of the flames, which burst through the roof before the firemen had them under control.

The loss was estimated at $100,000.

With the fire out, two girl employes were reported missing and Fire Chief Henry Fox sent the Rescue Company in to search for them. He ordered all the debris cleared out and flood lights thrown into the interior. Hundreds of spectators stayed to watch this search.

TRAFFIC TIED UP

All traffic in the vicinity was at a standstill as fire apparatus filled Essex, Kingston and other streets near the scene of the fire.

Thousands of persons watched the firemen battle the spectacular blaze, and 120 policemen, drawn to the fire-fighting parts of the city by the fourth alarm, held them in check.

Mayor Curley and Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman were among the first on the scene and they stayed to witness the thrilling battle with the flames.

Firemen were endangered by fumes from the celluloid and had to be warned by Chief Henry Fox, who personally directed them to pour water on the blazing interior from the windows.

ONE MAN OVERCOME.

Charles Kendall of Elm st., Everett, was overcome as he tried to escape from the rapidly spreading flames and thick smoke after joining with Samuel Chase, president of the concern, and Abraham Gordon, plant manager, in warning all the employes to flee.

He collapsed on the stairs between the first and second floors and was carried out by Chase and Gordon. He was revived on the sidewalk.

Kendall was later taken to City Hospital, treated for exhaustion and inhalation of smoke and then removed to his home.

Three girl employes were aided out by Joseph Danaker of Lynn, another employe of the company. Several of the other girls became

STEEL ORDERS UP 157000 TONS

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corp. increased 157,873 tons in November to a total of 3,639,636 tons Nov. 30. In October an increase of 37,425 tons was shown.

The backlog as of Oct. 31 was 3,481,763 tons. On Sept. 30 unfilled orders aggregated 3,424,338 tons. On Aug. 31 the total unfilled tonnage was 3,508,201 tons and Nov. 30, 1929 unfilled orders amounted to 4,123,345 tons.

LAVAL FAILS TO FORM CABINET

Paris, Dec. 10 (AP)—Pierre Laval today informed the President that he had failed in his efforts to form a new cabinet.

The announcement came after Laval had conferred with former President Poincare and group of the country's elder statesmen. It was preceded by rumors in the Chamber circles that he would abandon his attempt in the face of persistent antagonism toward Andre Tardieu.

Laval had insisted that he would not form any cabinet that did not include his "old friend," Tardieu.

Observers were confident that this second failure to replace the resigned Tardieu government would result in a call upon Poincare to take over the helm.

Curley Moves for 1-Man Traffic Rule

A move for one-man control of traffic was made by Mayor Curley today when he instructed Corp. Counsel Samuel Silverman to draw a bill to the Legislature asking for the change. The bill would abolish the present board of five, including the police commissioner, park, street and transit commissioners and a chairman.

"I am firmly convinced regulations would best be handled by one man," he said, "and that would eliminate the various delays that must come with a variance of opinions."

ment's expense. He only secured it because the Navy department, no doubt, knew that it would be better for it to accede to his wishes in that regard.

"Such a trip made at government expense in a government battleship before he was President was the very height of impropriety. And since the President has undertaken to assault us, since he has denounced us, I think we might as well have it cleared up here and now.

"Another situation that has been open to public talk for a long time," he said, "is that the President, in buying and building him a summer home, used the Marines of the United States in building the roads, or clearing the lands, or building a house down there.

"I don't know that this is true, I just know that it is on the lips of every one. If it is true it is an indecent and illegal use of the powers of the President in his control over the United States marines."

HITS RAIDS ON TREASURY

Assailing the President for alleged raids on the treasury, McKellar cited the London naval pact which required the sinking of American ships and Mr. Hoover's subsequent request of $19,400,000 to build new warships.

"It is the steel trusts, the ship building people and the big interests of the country that profit by such a system," said McKellar. "That constitutes a raid on the Treasury for these people.

"If there ever were a raid upon the Treasury, the President's recommendations for these appropriations to aid the great shipping trusts of the country constitute such a raid."

McKellar likewise referred to Mr. Hoover's recommendation for a $135,000,000 tax refund to rich taxpayers and big corporations. He termed this recommendation "another raid on the treasury."

ROBINSON IN HOT REPLY

Replying to President Hoover, Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, said, if the passage yesterday of the $60,000,000 drouth relief bill by the Senate constituted a raid upon the treasury, I am willing to accept the odium which may attach to such transaction."

Senator Rogers proposed the purchase of the surplus wheat held by the farm board for distribution to the poor, the extension of road building and the continuance of the agricultural aid work.

He said he was willing to meet the cost for this added work, if necessary, by a bond issue. He preferred a bond issue to an increase in tax.

"But I would raise taxes," he roared, "rather than refuse our primary duty to relieve our own people in such a time of danger and emergency."

BLAINE (R.), HITS HOOVER

Senator Blaine, (R.), Wisconsin, termed Mr. Hoover a "mendicy politician."

Blaine said the bill carried only $50,000,000 as $50,000,000 would be repaid by the states in five years.

"This provision is an insult to every state," he added. "Instead of aiding employment it will increase unemployment in succeeding years."

Replying to McKellar, Senator Bingham said many of the things the Tennessean had "implied and insinuated" were unworthy to go into the Congressional Record.

"It is easy to see that the campaign of 1932 is under way," Bingham continued, and there was laughter from the galleries. "It is also apparent that the members on the other side believe the people are going to insist upon the renomination and election of the present occupant of the White House and they are making campaign material as fast as they can."

House Republican leaders were formulating plans today to slash the $60,000,000 drouth relief bill sent to it with Senate approval yesterday. Administration leaders likewise planned to eliminate that section allowing funds for food loans to farmers.

The House Agricultural Committee is to meet tomorrow to consider the Senate measure. It has approved a measure for $50,000,000, the agriculture department recommended $25,000,000.

Representative Purnell, Republican, Indiana, a power on the agriculture committee, said the plans called for striking out of the enacting clause of Senate bill, and substituting the House committee measure.

Senate Boosts Treasury and P. O. Bill to $1,084,399,309

Washington, Dec. 10 (INS)—The Senate appropriations committee today eliminated from the Treasury and Postoffice appropriation bill a House provision forbidding pay increases during the coming year.

The bill carried a total appropriation of $1,084,399,309, for the Treasury and Postoffice departments, an increase of $848,560 over the amount approved by the House.

The bill sent to the Senate grants a Saturday half-holiday to postoffice employes.

BANK BANDITS STEAL $55,000

Kansas City, Dec. 10 (AP)—Four robbers held up the Inter-State National Bank in the Livestock Exchange building here today and made off with currency estimated between $50,000 and $55,000.

The quartet, unmasked, took charge of the bank when the porter arrived to open the place. Officers and employes arriving for work were greeted with drawn pistols and held in a group until the time lock on the vault permitted its opening.

Before the vault could be opened there were 25 or 30 persons in the group covered by the robbers guns. The four men escaped in a motor car.

Santa Claus Does Rush Business—It's a Town

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Santa Claus started receiving Christmas letters four weeks earlier this year than last, and already has ten times as many.

WORLD COURT UP TO SENATE

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—President Hoover today submitted the protocol for American adherence to the World Court to the Senate.

The protocol with an accompanying letter was sent to the Senate late in the day. It was received without notice for some time while the Senate debated unemployment relief.

The Senate foreign relations committee held its regular meeting earlier in the day. It will not meet again in regular session for another week.

CONGRESS ASKS FIVE BILLIONS FOR 'RELIEF'

Gigantic Loans and the Creation of 12,000 Jobs Provided in Early Bills

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—If all relief proposals offered in Congress were to become law, the treasury would have to find five billion dollars to pay the appropriations.

Only two bills to aid in employment and assist farmers damaged by the drouth have gone part way through the legislative mill. They provide, as they now stand, $110,000,000 for public works and $60,000,000 for farmers' loans.

The Patman measure to pay immediately the World War Veterans' compensation certificates, would take $3,500,000,000. It has been held up in committee. Several similar bills have been introduced.

HUGE LOANS URGED

Other relief proposals would achieve varying objects, such as:

To increase federal highway aid to $500,000,000 annually.

Let counties employ as many as 500 men at $5 a day for road work and draw money from a $250,000,000 federal fund.

Lend $75,000,000 to farmers through the farm loan board and land-grant colleges.

Advance to "any state held to be gravely affected by the drouth" $5,000,000.

Reimburse each state for caring for unemployed out of a $100,000,000 fund.

Use $3,500,000 for agricultural extension work in drouth counties.

Spend $52,000,000 in a general veterans' hospital construction program.

CREATING $12,000 JOBS

Create a federal industrial commission of five members at salaries of $12,000 a year each to study stabilizing of employment. Give $5,000,000 to Arkansas for road work.

Appropriate $1,500,000 for additions to West Point.

Authorize $10,000,000 to reimburse Florida farmers for losses from the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Distribute surplus naval or military supplies free to the needy.

British Railways Reject Wage Scale

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—Spokesmen for British railways today rejected wage revision proposals by three unions. Last month the railways proposed a general reduction of wages. The union proposal is for a minimum wage of $15 a week, consolidation of the so-called bonus in the basic wage rate, and six days off every year with pay.

Smith Warns Party to Watch Its Steps

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, speaking at a dinner last night in honor of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the Governor, and Mrs. John F. Curry, wife of the Tammany Hall leader, said of the recent election:

"We had a great victory, but now is the time to be more careful. With great power come very great responsibilities. The eyes of the nation will make appraisal of our victory to see how ready we are to form in proper fold to the people for their great vote of confidence."

Suspect Is Held in Bay State Shooting

Camden, N. J., Dec. 10 (AP)—George Fingerhut, 28, of Collingswood, said by police to be wanted in Springfield, Mass., for wounding Joseph Gaudreau, a policeman, two weeks ago, was arrested today at the home of his sister, Mrs. Peter Gondolf, in Fairview.

Fingerhut's brother, Hugh, was arrested by the Springfield policeman in a pistol fight with three supposed thieves, Camden police said.

Lindy Starts Work on Airport at Home

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 10 (AP)—Blasting and digging began yesterday on a field of the Charles A. Lindbergh's farm near Princeton, and Col. Lindbergh said work here was being cleared of rocks and rough spots for eventual addition to his private landing field. Work on a permanent residence, the Colonel said, would begin shortly.

New Liner to Sail for Boston Dec. 17

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 10 (AP)—The new Canadian National liner Prince Robert, built for the Pacific coast route, arrived today from Liverpool. On December 17 she will sail from Halifax for Boston and on December 20 will start the first of three cruises to Bermuda, Jamaica and Havana.

Kidnaping Suspect Pleads Not Guilty

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Albert Edward Corbett, who says he is a physician, pleaded not guilty today to the kidnaping June 3, 1928, of 10-year-old Grace Budd, who has never been found.

Corbett's indictment said he was sentenced to prison in Boston in 1904 for grand larceny and forfeited his bail in 1918 in Middleboro, Mass.

DUPLICATE OF KAUFMAN GUN IS SOUGHT

Sheriff Wants Weapon for a New Test to Be Staged in Maine Woods

Skowhegan, Me., Dec. 10—Another sensational angle developed today in the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mitchell B. Kaufman, wealthy Boston rubber magnate, when Sheriff Elton L. Markham announced that he was searching for a duplicate of Kaufman's rifle.

It was pointed out that hunt for a second rifle in the woods mystery does not signify elimination of the clue which prompted tests of the Austrian Mannlicher rifle and exploded bullet by Capt. Charles J. Van Amburgh, state gun expert of Massachusetts.

Sheriff Markham announced he desired to locate a Mauser rifle similar to that carried by Kaufman on the day he vanished while he and his companions were trailing a deer with two guides.

HIT NEW TRAIL

The sheriff did not reveal his purpose in trying to get a duplicate of Kaufman's rifle, but it was apparent he and his deputies had after a month of investigation struck a definite trail which they propose to pursue to the end.

Markham's actions and tone indicated they had something promising. Developments within the past 48 hours were of such a nature that Sheriff Markham found it necessary to postpone re-enactment of the hunting scene near Crocker pond on the day Kaufman vanished in order to secure the desired replica of Kaufman's gun, borrowed from an official of Converse Rubber Co. in Malden, of which the missing bachelor was president.

FIRST GUN NOT ELIMINATED.

Asked if his quest for a second rifle meant that the rifle examined by Capt. Van Amburgh in Boston on Monday was out of the case, Sheriff Markham replied:

"We are still interested in the rifle and exploded shell which were examined by Capt. Van Amburgh. They are still in the case. But I desire another rifle, similar to that carried by Kaufman, which was borrowed from a friend for this hunting trip.

"This rifle was first supposed to be a Remington, but investigation showed that it was a Mauser, and I am now hunting that type of rifle for the test which we wish to make. I may get one, close by, but if I don't I shall send to Nova Scotia for one.

PLANS NEW TEST

"Meanwhile I shall be obliged to put off the re-enactment of that hunting scene. I want to check up on the other rifle before I carry out a repetition of the occurrences of the afternoon of November 4.

"I shall invite every member of Kaufman's party to come here and talk part in the re-enactment because I will need them. I want them to repeat everything they did on that afternoon and one of my men will impersonate Kaufman. I want to supervise the test. I was not at the one carried out last week by one of my subordinates."

Watch Out for Bad Taste in Alky Now

Pittsfield, Dec. 10—Poisoned alcohol claimed a fifth victim today when James C. Hovey, 39, died, leaving a widow and six children. Police learned from William Martin, 60, a patient at House of Mercy hospital, and recovering, that a party of seven purchased the alcohol for drinking purposes at a local hardware store. The other victims are Ellsworth C. Hermance, Frank Rosier, Charles O'Connor and William H. Fletcher.

Reports on India Parley Drafted

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—Activities of sub-committees within the Round Table conference on India today had reached the report drafting stage. The next big item for discussion is elaboration of the constitution which will be taken up next week. Reports of the sub-committees will be submitted to the main committee Friday and the plenary session of the conference is planned for Monday.

Portugal to Crush New Revolt Move

Lisbon, Portugal, Dec. 10 (AP)—Assurances that the government will spare no efforts to preserve order and to crush subversive movements are contained in a government statement published today. The statement says the government, assisted by the army and civilian authorities, will pursue unflinchingly its work of national restoration.

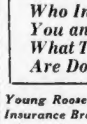
Young Roosevelt to Become Insurance Broker Here

James Roosevelt, son of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, first year law student at Boston University, revealed today that he plans to take an examination for license as an insurance broker next Monday.



James Roosevelt

Young Roosevelt yesterday was elected to the presidency of his class over Phil Hootstein, former football captain, and noted athlete. Like his father, young Roosevelt decided to begin his career in the insurance business. He was graduated from Harvard business school last June and found he needed law as a foundation for insurance work and matriculated at Boston University.

Young Roosevelt is popular among his classmates. Last June he was married to Miss Betty Cushing, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Cushing of Boston.

Helen Morgan Not to Wed Lew, or Anyone

Pittsburgh, Dec. 10—Called upon to confirm or deny a report she intended to marry Arthur M. Loew, theater magnate, Helen Morgan, star of "Sweet Adeline," said she had no intention of marrying anyone—at least for a couple of years.

Helen Morgan.

Loew's wife, Mildred Zukor Loew, obtained a divorce in Reno yesterday. Since then the report has persisted in theatrical circles that Loew would take Helen Morgan as her successor.

Villagers Given York Christening Cake

Glamis, Scotland, Dec. 10—From the Duke and Duchess of York, each inhabitant of this village has received a piece of christening cake.

Duchess of York

It was in Glamis Castle that their new daughter, Princess Margaret Rose, was born after several weeks of anxious waiting, during which the entire populace gathered nightly outside the walls awaiting the signal that would send the tidings across the countryside by bonfires on the hills.

The cake arrived by mail, a piece of it addressed to each man, woman and child of Glamis.

Plot to Kill Atlantic City Mayor Revealed

Mayor Bacharach

Judge Joseph A. Ferris put $25,000 bail for Russel Pippen, cabaret employe arrested a week ago when detectives learned he had threatened Bacharach's life.

"The underworld cannot intimidate me," said Mayor Bacharach as he sat between two detectives in his office. "They have vowed to kill me if I don't let up on them, and that is the only way they can stop me."

Furtado Death Case Goes to Jury Today

The case of John Furtado, charged with the murder of his wife, Antonia, on Oct. 19, went to the jury in Middlesex Superior Criminal Court at 12:40 p. m. today at the conclusion of Judge Nelson Brown's charge. In closing the case yesterday the State, through Asst. Dist. Atty. Richard S. McCabe, attempted to show how Furtado could have bound and gagged himself after the death of his wife.

James S. Cannon, counsel for Furtado, in his summation asked for acquittal, charging the State had introduced only flimsy circumstantial evidence.

10,000 Women Battle Police as Kingsford-Smith Weds

Melbourne, Australia, Dec. 10—Scenes of wild excitement occurred here today at the marriage of Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian transatlantic flier, and his sweetheart, Miss Mary Powell.

Ten thousand women overwhelmed a police cordon thrown about Scots Church.

The bride was taken through the mob by an escort of police, who swung batons to clear a pathway. Commander Kingsford-Smith's mother was passed over the heads of the crowd to the door of the church.

The bride was attired in white and silver, with a long tulle veil. Her aviator husband wore his air force uniform and was accompanied by his friend and companion of his transpacific flight, C. T. P. Ulm.

Kingsford-Smith is the only pilot who has flown both the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans.

CLERGYMEN DEFEND LINDSEY AND COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE

DEFY BISHOP MANNING IN NEW YORK

Rev. Dr. White Wed "on Trial" Himself, and So Did His Daughter, She Reveals

New York, Dec. 10—There is an element of trial in every marriage and nothing of free love in companionate marriage.

So declared the Rev. Dr. Eliot White of Grace Episcopal Church today after the controversy between Bishop William T. Manning and Judge Ben Lindsey had resulted in the disclosure that his own daughter was a "companionate wife."

"I myself performed the ceremony and I approve the marriage heartily," said Dr. White, while the companionate marriage issue was splitting wider the ranks of the Episcopal clergy in this diocese.

DAUGHTER'S OWN VIEWS.

His daughter, a Smith College graduate and an advanced student in sociology and now Mrs. Chester G. A. Zoiker of Roselle, N. J., gave her views as follows on what it means to be a companionate bride:

"We have agreed to defer having a family until we are fully prepared. We do not want children now because of economic reasons. We desire to prolong our youth and beside that we wish to make sure our marriage will be a success before we bring children into the world. Our children will be born after we have made the necessary adjustments.

"In deciding to forego children for the time being, I was influenced by the liberal views of my father and by my studies in sociology."

DOESN'T LIKE "WEDLOCK."

Meanwhile Dr. White gave his reasons for approving of companionate marriage and Judge Lindsey's doctrine in opposition to the bishop.

"My daughter and her husband indicated to me and Mrs. White at the time of their marriage that they would postpone for some time having a family," he said. "If they decide not to have any children at this time that, to my mind, is the most important element in Judge Lindsey's idea of companionate marriage.

"All church marriages are companionate under these circumstances. There is nothing of free love in this. There is an element of trial in every marriage. Wedlock is a word I do not like. It sounds like throwing two young people into a cell and banging the door on them. The doors ought not to be slammed on marriage."

LINDSEY SPEAKS AGAIN.

Meanwhile, Judge Lindsey, bodily ejected from the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, made clearer the issues of his doctrine in an address at Reading, Pa. He suggested doing away with the divorce courts by supplanting them with a commission of scientists, doctors and psychiatrists to handle incompatible marriages.

Meanwhile, too, Dr. White and his wife filed affidavits to the effect that Bishop Manning's opposition to Judge Lindsey's appearance before the New York Churchmen's Association was peremptory and autocratic, and Rev. Bernard Iddings Bell, professor of religion at Columbia, resigned from that association because it was engaged in "bishop-baiting."

Another Episcopal clergyman who defended the Lindsey doctrine is the Rev. John A. Wade of St. John's Church, who termed the marriage of Dr. White's daughter "a classic example of companionate marriage."

GUTHRIE IMPARTIAL

The Rev. William N. Guthrie of St. Markson-the-Bouerie was impartial in his criticism of the bishop, the judge and Dr. White.

When he appears for trial on a disorderly conduct charge on Friday, as a result of his ejection from church when he assailed Dr. Manning, Judge Lindsey will defend himself by placing the blame for the disturbance at the bishop's door, he said.

"He wilfully provoked a breach of peace by slandering me in the pulpit," Lindsey charged.

Remarkable Photo of 4-Alarm Essex St. Fire Menacing Wholesale District

THOUSANDS WITNESSED this spectacular scene as fire raced through the four stories of an umbrella factory at 96 Essex st. after starting in the celluloid department on the second floor, threatening to spread throughout the district and driving out 34 men and 16 girls during lunch hour today. Smoke poured into adjoining buildings and flames reached to a Bedford st. building, forcing scores more to flee by fire escapes and stairways. Four alarms were sounded and first estimate of the damage was $100,000. (Staff photo.)

26 DOCTORS AND LAWYERS IN AUTO FRAUDS

Many Organizations Join in Drive to Put Stop to Fake Claims

Twenty-five known lawyers and physicians, involved in a fake claim racket on automobile insurance, are threatened with loss of their practice, it was revealed today, with the organization of legal and insurance interests to break a huge chain of false claims.

The move for organization followed petitions for disbarment of two lawyers by the Boston Bar Association on charges of deceit, malpractice and misconduct.

The new organization, due to meet within ten days, will include representatives of the Massachusetts Medical Association, the Boston Bar Association, the National Bureau of Casualty and Insurance Underwriters.

The American Mutual Alliance, the insurance commissioner, the industrial insurance companies of Massachusetts, Boston Automobile Club, Chamber of Commerce and the office of Gov. Frank G. Allen.

PLANS KEPT SECRET

The plans of the committee have been strictly guarded on the grounds that the unscrupulous lawyers and doctors in the fraud ring are "very resourceful" and would combat every move made.

One of the lawyers, it was pointed out by a member of the new organization, had 500 claims against one insurance company last year and 200 against another. The average, he said, for one lawyer to handle against a company would not be more than 40 to 50 in the same period.

"We plan to spend all the money that is necessary to break up this fake claim racket," the member said.

"The racket is centered on 25 lawyers and physicians who employ regular runners at hospitals and police stations. Victims are steered to these phony lawyers on whom we are preparing data now."

FRAUDS BOOST RATES

He advised the public to report accidents immediately as the aid toward halting the racket.

A flagrant case that he cited today was that of a claim for personal injury in which a man broke a broken nose.

An insurance company paid $450 on the claim and when the man received only $50 he complained that actually that nose had been broken some 20 years ago in a prize fight.

The two lawyers already petitioned for disbarment are David S. Miller and Benjamin L. Snyder, both with offices in the Tremont st. building. The two represented opposite sides on an accident in the market district, according to the charges.

LINER BERLIN IS DUE FRIDAY

A new transatlantic steamship service out of Boston will be inaugurated Friday when the Berlin, newest and finest cabin liner of the North German Lloyd line fleet, calls for passengers going abroad for the holidays.

This is the largest vessel of this line to sail from Boston, and the occasion of its visit will be made a gala one by local officials of the company. Prominent Bostonians will be their guests aboard the Berlin and the public may inspect the ship.

The Berlin is scheduled to arrive at Commonwealth pier at 11 a. m. and to leave two hours later.

More than 100 passengers, including Christmas excursionists to Ireland, will go aboard here, and 100 tons of freight and a large quantity of mail will be put aboard.

President of Cuba Is Asked to Resign

Havana, Dec. 10 (AP)—Dr. Carlos Manuel de la Cruz, Conservative party representative from Havana Province and formerly a strong supporter of President Machado, today directed to the President a letter demanding that he resign "to save Cuba from a state of anarchy."

Navigation Closes on the Great Lakes

Toronto, Dec. 10 (AP)—Navigation on the great lakes was closing today, four days before the official date. Except one or two en route to winter quarters, all boats were safely tied up. Mariners said the season was a poor one financially, but fewer than 50 men lost their lives, as against more than 100 last year.

hysterical and were taken into nearby buildings to be calmed.

35 GIRLS FLEE.

The flames leaped across an areaway and licked the building occupied by the Commonwealth Dress Co. at 65 Bedford st. and 35 girl employes and three men went down over the fire escapes as the quickest way to safety.

The fire started shortly before 1 o'clock on the second floor of the plant where three workmen were drilling celluloid in the manufacture of umbrella handles. Sparks from the drills ignited a large sheet of celluloid.

Realizing the danger, Gordon and Kendall immediately ordered everybody out and they were joined by Chase as they ran through the entire building to give this warning.

As the employes started to flee, the flames leaped to a pile of celluloid and from there to the walls of the second floor room. In an instant the entire second floor was ignited by a burst of flames almost like an explosion.

ON FOURTH ALARM.

The flames were leaping from the windows as the first firemen arrived. The second alarm was skipped and a third sounded under orders of Deputy Chief Powers, and two minutes later, with the fire raging from top to bottom of the structure and threatening adjoining buildings, a fourth alarm was sounded.

Downtown workers on the lunch hour, following the apparatus to the scene of the fire, saw the firemen scale the walls on ladders and pour tons of water into the blazing interior.

Deputy Chief Powers took half the firemen to the rear of the building and attacked the flames from there. A large squad went to the roof, but in spite of their efforts the flames burst through at the rear.

Chief Fox said afterward that his men made remarkably quick work of battling down the flames in view of the quick spread of the fire, due to the celluloid.

All the employes lost personal belongings and outer clothing. Some wanted to go back to search for their things, hoping to find them unburned, after the fire was out, but they were warned of the fumes, as were the firemen.

Employes were driven out by smoke and the threat of the flames from the Allen Stationery Co. at 100 Essex st., the Diamond Bros. Co., at No. 94, William M. Quinn Co. at No. 106 and other shops in the block.

Officials of Diamond Bros. Co. at 94 Essex st. reported considerable smoke and water damage to the first floor salesrooms and three storage floors. Five persons were driven out from this establishment.

The building where the fire occurred was of modern construction, unlike many other structures in that area, and this prevented a more serious blaze, fire officials said.

PHELAN URGES NAVY WORK

Modernization of the Boston navy yard and the building of at least one destroyer there was urged today by James J. Phelan, chairman of the Governor's emergency committee on unemployment, in a letter to Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams.

Copies of the letter were mailed to Senators Frederick H. Gillett and David I. Walsh.

Phelan stated that outstanding among the needs is a shop for structural steel work with modern equipment, estimated to cost $1,500,000.

Extension of pier work, through an additional appropriation of $500,000 to a balance of like amount now available for this work, is urged, together with $30,000 for a crane for the marine railroad.

'It's Spring Here,' Says Weather Man

Boston, if the weatherman is to be believed, is in for a nice, long spell of spring-like weather. The break in the recent chilly snap came in the wee hours of the morning and with the arrival of Old Sol the mercury went skyrocketing to the 50 degree mark at 8 a. m.

And that's not all. The weatherman sees no cold in sight for some time to come.

Release of 21 Sought

Warsaw, Dec. 10 (AP)—Opposition members in Parliament today demanded the release of 21 of their colleagues in the previous Parliament who they charge, are imprisoned in the fortress at Brest-Litovsk and have been submitted to violence by military guards.

Lyman School Inmates Escape

Westboro, Dec. 10 (AP)—Four more inmates of Lyman School for Boys, in Westboro, were reported today as having escaped from the institution, making nine escapes the past week. The five who previously escaped were captured and returned to the school.

Boy Dies as Chum Admits Shooting

Providence, Dec. 10 (INS)—With his lips sealed against efforts to involve a friend, Stanley Keyak, 17, died today a few hours after Theodore Bilski, also 17, at police headquarters sobbed out a confession that he accidentally shot and killed Keyak on the street Dec. 3. A stolen pistol found in an ash barrel led to the arrest of Bilski.

U. S. Gets Millions From Tax Dodgers

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Evading payment of income taxes apparently is becoming a losing game. This was shown today in a report that last year $13,037,670 was collected from delinquent income tax payers.

In addition, the Internal Revenue Bureau collected $8,093,263 from delinquents in miscellaneous taxes, making the total from such sources $21,130,933. In five years the bureau has collected $68,127,049 in delinquent taxes.

Curtis Hopes for Peace in Palestine

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The hope that "all difficulties in regard to Palestine will be satisfactorily settled" was expressed in a letter from Vice-President Curtis, made public today by the New York Zionist region.

Fall River Banker Held on Secret Theft Indictment

Fall River, Dec. 10—James D. McFarlane, 32, a trust officer in the B. M. C. Durfee Trust Company, was arraigned secretly last night before United States Commissioner Fred Otis in Federal court in Providence on an indictment charging misapplication of funds and embezzlement from the Durfee Co. to the extent of $3700, it was learned today. McFarlane pleaded not guilty.

The indictment was returned by the federal grand jury at Boston recently.

Asst. Dist. Atty. George D. Reame learned that McFarlane was wanted by the federal officers and received information he was living at the Spring Hill farm in Tiverton, R. I. State police arrested him at the farm yesterday.

McFarlane gave $3500 bail for hearing on December 22. His alleged thefts cover the period from March 8, 1929, to June 5, 1930.

13 Shopping Days to Christmas

a baby's Christmas

A wee mite wakes on Christmas Day just long enough to guzzle some food and then sigh contentedly back to sleep. He doesn't quite understand this commotion. There seems to be a lot of scurrying about and general excitement and mother keeps talking a lot of nonsense about some Santa Claus chap whom he has never met. Yet that new sweater they have just pulled over his head is mighty warm and comfortable. Oh, well, guess Christmas can't be quite so bad after all.

When you Christmas-shop for a baby visit the baby departments of Boston's leading stores. Besides all the lovely "warm and woolly" things there you will see many new and unique things for babies—new toys and new baby accessories.

YOUTH HELD IN POISON DART PLOT ON GIRL

Chicago, Dec. 10 (AP)—The fantastic story of an alleged extortion plot against Miss Marian Wright, 18-year-old society girl, unfolded today following the arrest of William Kuhn, 23, broker's clerk, who was accused of sending threatening letters.

Kuhn denied authorship of the missives. One of them, police said, mentioned "poisoned darts which would be despatched noiselessly 2000 feet."

THREATENS TO KILL

"How would you like to meet such a fate?" police quoted from one of the letters after they had booked Kuhn last night on a charge of attempting to extort $25,000 from Miss Wright under threat of death to her or her father, who is an executive of the Edgewater Steel Company. Kuhn's brother, Wendell, a broker, characterized the matter as a "mistake" and posted bonds for the accused man.

Five letters, written on a typewriter, formed the basis for the arrest. Detectives said an inspection of the office where Kuhn is employed revealed one typewriter, the type of which corresponded with that of the threatening letters.

PARTED AFTER ROW

According to Miss Wright, who is to make her social debut Saturday, she and Kuhn were friendly until recently, when they quarreled. At that time, she said, Kuhn remarked that he would "get even."

A week later, she said, the first of the letters, directing that the money be sent by general delivery, was received.

CHARITY GROUP JOINS BASKET FUND DRIVE

The Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American acknowledges with pleasure the receipt of a letter of commendation from St. Joseph's Total Abstinence Society and an enclosed check for $100.

Endorsement of the work of the Basket Fund by an organization that has accomplished so much for the relief of those in want is deeply appreciated.

HUNDREDS IN NEED

The letter is one of many that have expressed such comment and the messages have served to encourage to greater effort the corps of workers who are striving to answer every appeal for help.

There are many hundreds of families in every section of Greater Boston who are waiting hopefully for replies to their pleas for help. Food and clothing in great quantities are needed.

Unemployment has placed many families in desperate want, and there are a number of cases where small children have gone for days without substantial food. The work of attending to each case is becoming more strenuous each day and can be done thoroughly only through the co-operation of civic and fraternal organizations.

ALL CAN HELP

If there is a needy family in your neighborhood you can help by forwarding the name, address and size of the family to the Basket Fund editor. You can help further by calling on the members of some organization to help the Basket Fund in distributing relief.

You can help also by sending a donation to the Basket Fund at the office of the Boston Evening American. Only a few more days remain to finish the gigantic task of answering every appeal sent to this office. The Basket Fund wants to provide for every one that is in need. Help the Basket Fund to reach its goal and GIVE TODAY.

Congress Leaders Face Fight on Bonus

Washington, Dec. 10 (INS)—Militant House veterans, demanding that Congress vote a bond issue to pay off the soldiers' bonus in cash, today had launched a fight to overturn administration leaders in the House. Rep. Hawley, (R.), of Oregon, chairman of the ways and means committee, having thus far refused to give a hearing on bills to this end, a petition was placed on the speaker's desk by Rep. Patmon, (D.), of Texas asking the committee to be compelled to report.

Harvard Scientists to Inspect Strange Sea Specimen

A strange specimen from the deep was brought to the Fish Pier today by Capt. Peter Strecino of the dragger Vasco da Gama. Harvard scientists were asked to inspect it.

The fish was caught in the South channel fishing grounds. According to veteran fish-handlers, who were stumped when they tried to identify it, it has the mouth of a skate, teeth of a monkfish and is shaped like a sunfish.

BRISBANE HITS SPECULATORS

Chicago, Dec. 10 (INS)—Predictions by internationally known speakers of an early revival of normal trade were made today at a dinner of Illinois manufacturers.

The speakers included Edward Wentworth Beatty, president and chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway; Arthur Brisbane, eminent New York editor, and B. C. Forbes, financial critic.

In speaking of present business conditions Mr. Brisbane pointed out that a few years ago intellectual people started to kill one another. They succeeded, he said, in slaughtering millions of men and wasting billions of dollars in wealth.

"Speculators thought they wouldn't have to pay the cost of this," he said, "but now they are paying. I think in the future what this country should do would be to avoid mistakes. I think we ought to keep out of complications. If we want a league of nations let us have one with Mexico and Canada."

LEWIS DWARFS KELLOGG AT PRIZE AWARD

Stockholm, Dec. 10 (AP)—Sinclair Lewis, red-haired first citizen of Sauk Center, Minn., today received from the hands of King Gustave of Sweden the 1930 Nobel prize for literature.

The creator of George H. Babbitt was the center of interest despite the presence of the distinguished winners of Nobel awards in other fields. His vigorous personality has seized the popular imagination of Sweden.

Dr. Karl Landsteiner of New York, winner of the award in medicine, was there with Sir Chandrasekhara Venkata Raman of Calcutta, winner of the physics award, and Prof. Hans Fischer of Munich, who received the prize in chemistry.

King Gustave, other members of the royal family and a group Stockholm's most distinguished citizens applauded the addresses of presentation and acceptances in the Stockholm Concert House.

Stockholm, Dec. 10 (AP)—Sinclair Lewis, American author, who received the Nobel prize for literature today, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Swedish Academy.

At Oslo, Norway, this morning, another American, Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state under President Coolidge, received the 1929 Nobel peace award. The 1930 peace prize was presented to Dr. Nathan Soederblom, archbishop of Upsala.

DEVELOPMENT OF PORTS URGED

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—J. Hampton Moore, president of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, told the rivers and harbors congress today that, if the United States is to have commercial intercourse with other nations, the ports on the Atlantic seaboard must be developed to the fullest extent.

If the population along the Atlantic coast is to be increased, Moore said, intercoastal waterway projects must be pushed to completion.

The development of intercoastal canals and adequate harbors, he asserted, lend strength and security in times of conflict to the nation as a whole.

Equine Protector of Health Is Honored

New Brunswick, N. J., Dec. 10 (A.P.)—Doc Dobbin, who had furnished protection enough for 20,000 children, has had a great birthday party. With a garland of flowers around his neck he stood at the head of a table of children and munched apples. He ate one apple for each of his years of service, as a producer of diphtheria serum.

Doc, a big brown percheron, is 15 years old.

Picked Police Guard Vice Quiz Informer

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Six picked police lieutenants were assigned today to guard "Chile" Arano Acuna is the ex-police informer who testified that 28 policemen who employed him framed charges against women so they could collect graft. His lieutenant guards, all 25 the eligible list for captaincies have been assigned in pairs on eight-hour shifts.

Sunday Show Ban Is Unconstitutional

Chicago, Dec. 10 (AP)—An Evanston, Ill., ordinance prohibiting the showing of moving pictures on Sunday was held by Circuit Judge Philip L. Sullivan to be reasonably discriminatory and therefore unconstitutional. His decision held that persons of faiths celebrating the Sabbath on days other than Sunday had the right to six days of amusement.

New York Bus Dives in River; None Hurt

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 10 (AP)—A bus en route from Pittsburgh to New York left the highway near Newport today and ran into the Juniata river. Company officers here said none of the passengers were injured.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

CHINA REDS IN KILLING ORGY

Hankow, China, Dec. 10—Communism today appeared to be gaining momentum in China, despite all efforts of the government to curb it.

In northwest Hupeh province, 20,000 Reds virtually annihilated a similar number of Provincial troops. Advices said Communism was spreading rapidly into southeastern Honan province, where bandits were reported conducting a reign of terror.

Dispatches described orgies of killing, looting and burning in Honan, one message asserted that the Reds, furious against the Kuomintang (political party behind the Nationalist government) publicly boiled in a pot of oil the government's representative in an obscure village. Many tax officials of Honan province were reported to have been executed.

Leaders of the Communists in Hupeh were said to be well-educated, upper-class men, merciless, however, in their war against capitalism. Instances have been cited in which these leaders were reported to have shot down their own relatives as members of the capitalist class.

Communist depredations also were continuing in Hunan province, advices from Changsha indicated. Dispatches said reds occupied the town of Siangyin, north of Changsha, for one day. When they departed, they left the city a heap of ashes.

River pirates near Wuhu captured a small boat, robbed the passengers and crew, stripped the ship of all valuables and escaped with about $10,000 Mexican (about $4000).

PLOT TO BOMB CHILE LEADER

Santiago De Chile, Dec. 10 (AP)—Government agents last night thwarted an attempt against the lives of President Carlos Ibanez and members of his party when they removed a bomb set to blow up the presidential train as it neared the capital.

Police and detectives who had been watching development of an "anarchist" plot saw the conspirators place 10 kilos of dynamite under the railroad bridge across the Rio Maipo, 30 kilometers south west of Santiago.

At least four persons were arrested. Their names were not learned. After discovery of the bomb the presidential party made merry in his special coach, members of the party toasting Colonel Ibanez, giving him pledges of loyalty.

that they are always electing a Frenchman premier.

Why not get our diplomats back from Geneva so they can help us with the apples?

New vaudeville act of Darrow and Lindsey looks good. Songs, snappy sayings and smart riddles.

Mr. Hoover didn't mention prohibition in his presidential message.

And, as far as we know, there was no postscript.

Prohibition is the big quiz of the administration. The Senate is buzzing about it.

But where there's smoke, there's blindfold tests.

And, there's the even more conservative teetotaler who only wants beer for a chaser.

There is the bonicky dryster with a dusty breath like a vacuum cleaner and eyes like worm holes in apples.

He's so dry he won't even pray for rain for the farmers. His antithesis is the walloping wastar, who wishes the Mississippi river was whiskey and he was being chased across it by the Indians.

And do that about 16 times a day.

Then we would say the liquor problem was solved.

Matter of fact, it's solved now. Everything except the price.

There isn't much wrong with prohibition now except the unfair competition.

If Congress does vote beer we are going to lose something beautiful. Think of how we will miss those pretty labels.

What happens to the man in the green hat when beer comes back? Does he retain his senatorial seat or does he become a bootlegger-at-large?

Father Griffin Dies in Hospital

Springfield, Dec. 10 (AP)—Rev. John Francis Griffin, since July, 1929, pastor of Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church in this city, and for 29 years before then at Holy Rosary Church at Holyoke, died last night at House of Providence Hospital at Holyoke after a brief illness. He was born at Belchertown March 27, 1869.

Fog Still Ties Up English Shipping

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—Southern England groped this morning through a fog which persisted well into the day. It was not so thick as yesterday's, but it looked as though it would last longer. In the Straits of Dover the fog was so thick that Channel craft had to drop their anchors for safety's sake.

LIST OF STARS FOR FUND SHOW STILL GROWS

The biggest show of the year, to be staged in aid of the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American, is only five days away and there are still a few choice seats remaining at the box office of the Keith-Boston theater.

Record advance sales indicate that "standing room only" signs will be posted at the theater when the curtain goes up at midnight, December 16, on the greatest assembly of stage stars ever gathered at one Boston playhouse.

With all floor and balcony seats reserved at only $1 each, Boston theatergoers were quick to take advantage of the splendid opportunity to see their favorite stars at bargain prices. The result has been a tremendous advance sale.

ALL FOR BASKET FUND

Of course, many people were prompted to buy because of the fact that every dollar taken in at the box office will be turned over to the Christmas Basket Fund for the purchase of food and clothing for needy families.

And that is why everybody from R. Jay Rice, manager of the Keith-Boston, who donated the theater to the fund down to the last artist who volunteered his services, is working overtime to fill the theater.

Arthur Brown, witty and debonair master of ceremonies at the Mayfair Club, is not only going to appear on the midnight program but has sold a bundle of box seats at fancy prices to the patrons of the club.

SURPRISE TOMORROW

In his short career at the Mayfair Club, Brown has made many friends and the splendid efforts he has given to the Basket Fund will undoubtedly increase his popularity. Hell sing a couple of his favorite numbers at the midnight show and you're bound to like his voice and merry nonsense.

He will act as master of ceremonies for a part of the show and then he will be relieved by a big Boston favorite who will be announced in tomorrow's edition of the Boston Evening American.

In fact, there will be two big surprises for tomorrow—two more notable additions to the already gigantic program of stage and night club celebrities.

SHUBERT STARS, TOO

The Shubert Theater, cooperating with the RKO officials in producing the big show, has already announced that Lawrence Gray, Harry K. Morton, Nick Long, Jr., Jane Love and other stars of "The Street Singer" will be on hand. And now A. G. Munroe, general manager of the Shubert theaters, is preparing to announce that Eddie Duffy and Frank McGrath, the appearance of another international known screen star.

In addition to those mentioned the program will include Florence Reed, beautiful star of Pirate, now playing at the Plymouth; Grace Allen, the very attractive half of the team of Burns and Allen; Bobby Folsom, RKO headliner; Don Humbert, the Boston boy, who with his guitar has won national recognition as "The Whispering Serenader"; Hum and Strum, radio favorites, and a host of others.

Remember that there is a great demand for seats and the best are almost gone. Tickets may be purchased at both Keith theaters and at the office of the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American. Only five days left. BETTER BUY THEM TODAY.

Drys Denounce Loan to Grape Growers

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—A united front on legislative and political problems facing prohibition became the goal today of delegates of a score of dry organizations. Deets Pickett, research secretary, criticized the farm board for its loan to the California grape interests, some of which produce grape concentrate, capable of fermentation into wine.

Gov. Roosevelt Is on Way Back Home

Greenville, Ga., Dec. 10 (AP)—On the eve of his return to New York, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt last night told members of a "Roosevelt-for-President" Club that "a lot of water must pass under the bridge before any candidate is named and it might be someone whom no one has thought of."

Sharing Santa Claus Role for Midnight Basket Show

R. JAY RICE

GRACE ALLEN

ARTHUR BROWN

HERE ARE THREE MORE of the big-hearted theatrical folk who are working hard to make a success of the midnight show on December 15 for the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund. R. Jay Rice, manager of Keith-Boston Theater, has donated the theater and services of himself and the staff. Arthur Brown, Mayfair Club master of ceremonies, is not only on the program, but has sold box seats at fancy prices. Grace Allen, of the popular vaudeville team, Burns and Allen, is one of the many headliners on the program.

PRICE OF BREAD PROBED BY U. S.

Washington, Dec. 10—The Department of Justice has launched a national investigation to find out why the price of bread stays up while the cost of the wheat, of which it is made, falls steadily, Atty.-Gen. Mitchell announced today.

This inquiry was launched quietly several weeks ago by the department's anti-trust division. If it yields evidence that the price is "pegged" by illegal means, action is expected under the Sherman or Clayton acts.

Mitchell declined to throw any light on the government's course on the ground that the inquiry is incomplete, and it is still uncertain whether there has been any violations of law.

It is understood the prices of bread and of its raw materials are being checked in several cities.

Policeman Hurt in Jobless Riot

London, Dec. 10 (INS)—A policeman was seriously injured today when a group of 400 unemployed staged a demonstration outside the Hammersmith Town Hall, on the outskirts of London. Speakers agitated for government projects to aid the unemployed. Four were arrested.

Soviet Mobilizes to Fight Christmas as 'Snare'

Moscow, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Soviet anti-Christmas campaign began today with an announcement by the All-Union Society of Militant Atheists that thousands of professors, teachers, lecturers and students had been mobilized to instruct the public about Christmas and how it is a snare and a delusion. Lecturers are to reveal at meetings of workers and peasants the attempts of clergymen and priests to utilize the legend of the birth of Christ for counter-revolutionary purposes.

On Christmas night theaters and clubs will offer extra entertainment, with the purpose of attracting the wavering from church services.

15 Million Women Get Vote in Japan

Tokyo, Dec. 10 (AP)—Japanese women soon may be given the right to vote in municipal elections. If there are no ill effects, within a few years political rights to vote and hold office will be given more than 15,000,000 female subjects of the Mikado.

Aces Celebrate Feast

Madrid, Dec. 10 (AP)—Aviators from every corner of Spain came here today for the festival of Our Lady of Loreto, patron saint of Spanish aviation.

MOTHER SAVES 3 FROM FIRE

Brockton, Dec. 10—Three small children were rescued by their mother today when fire swept the second and third floors of the three-family house at 173-175 South Leyden st.

She is Mrs. Alfred O'Brien and the children are Averie, four, Alfred, two, and Alice, one. The plucky mother took them down from their home on the second floor to the street through a smoke-choked hallway.

The blaze started in a closet of the O'Brien flat, according to fire officials, and spread to the upper flat, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barry, who were out.

After the rescue of the children, Mrs. O'Brien returned to the house and fought the flames with Mrs. Onalow Jones of the first floor, the two taking the part of a bucket brigade until firemen arrived.

Sweethearts Find Way to Enter U. S.

Havana, Dec. 10 (AP)—Lovers, separated by the Atlantic Ocean and rigorous American immigration laws, have found one way to circumvent the restrictions which prevent European girls coming to the United States to marry sweethearts already there. The girls come here from Europe, meet their American sweethearts, marry them and obtain authorization to enter the United States as wives of citizens.

ACTOR HELD IN BIG ROBBERIES

Los Angeles, Dec. 10 (AP)—Hazel Roxen Sanders, 30, described by police as alternately film actor, importer and master burglar, was charged today with having stolen hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of furnishings from Los Angeles, Hollywood and Beverly Hills homes.

Police, in recovering more than $100,000 in loot, connected Sanders, alias J. White, with the burglaries through telltale fingerprints on window ledges of residences.

With Sanders in jail is an alleged accomplice Peter Ryan, alias Paul Mackley, 38, also charged with burglary.

In the role of importer, police said, Sanders sold oriental rugs to many persons of prominence, including motion picture stars, after stealing them.

Police said they found a chamois bag containing $20,000 in loose diamonds strapped to Sanders' knee.

45 Nations Meet to Make Planes Safe

Paris, Dec. 10 (AP)—Representatives of 45 nations met here today to discuss ways and means of making air travel safer.

Perfection of materials, especially control instruments, better marking of routes, psychology of pilots, schools for pilots and better dissemination of weather reports are to be considered.

Lone Youth Scales Highest Mountain in Africa

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—A dispatch to the London Daily Mail from Dar-Es-Salaam, Tanganyika, today said Kilima-Jaro, the highest mountain in Africa, had been ascended for the first time by a lone climber. A young Spaniard, Andres Espinosa of Balboa.

Previously never fewer than two persons attempted the ascent of the mountain. Espinosa started without carriers or guides. He took with him an ice pick and a haversack with tinned food. He spent nine days wandering in the snow and was obliged to pass three nights in a cave at a height of 18,000 feet before the weather permitted him to reach the summit.

He returned to Moshi, a town at the mountain's foot, with all the records he could find left there by earlier climbers as proof of his achievement.

Kilima-Njaro is 19,710 feet high.

Dole Is Attacked by Lord Inchcape

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—In what amounted to a slashing attack on Britain's internal financial policies, Lord Inchcape, famous shipping magnate, today declared he never has known trade to be so bad as in the past few months. He predicted "the prospects for shipping are far from bright."

He spoke at an annual meeting of the Peninsular & Orient Shipping Company, attributing the situation to "too lavish a hand in the payment of duties to the unemployed."

Brakeman Killed in Freight Crash

New York, Dec. 10 (INS)—John Woodward of Albany, a brakeman, was killed today and two other men were injured in a rear-end collision of freight trains in the Hudson River yards. Sherman Snell, 49, of Chatham, N. Y., and Isidor Stebbin, 30, of Capitil Falls, N. Y., were the two injured.

CHICAGO IS WILD OVER ROCKNE

Chicago, Dec. 10 (AP)—Several thousand football fans jammed the La Salle street station today in a wild demonstration to greet Knute Rockne and his Notre Dame University Rough Riders, returning from Los Angeles after their 19th straight victory.

The Ramblers were accorded the greatest ovation ever given an athletic team here.

The players jumped from their cars and ran for the automobiles which were to take them on a triumphant tour through Chicago.

The parade, zigzagging through the loop, passed the City Hall, decorated with the Notre Dame purple and gold. In La Salle st., financial center, showers of ticker tape and confetti were scattered to the winds.

The crowd broke away from police control there and surrounded the car in which rode Quarterback Frank Carideo, stopping the car and demanding a speech from the bewildered youth. The chauffeur got the car moving again, but missed the remainder of the parade.

Notre Dame Asked to Play in Boston

Boston will have its first opportunity to see the "Fighting Irish" football eleven of the University of Notre Dame in the fall of 1932, if officials of that institution accept Mayor Curley's invitation to play a post-season game here that year.

Today the Mayor forwarded his invitation to the Fathers of the Holy Cross, who conduct that college.

It is believed that if the westerners accept the invitation the Mayor will invite either Holy Cross College, Boston University, Harvard or Boston College to meet them.

ELECTION GUN FRAUD CHARGED

Washington, Dec. 10 (INS)—Representative Stanley H. Kunz, Democrat, of the 5th Illinois District, defeated in the November election by Peter Granata, Republican, today prepared to place affidavits before the House campaign funds investigating committee charging that gunmen contributed to his defeat.

Many English Seek Harkness Fund Aid

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—Trustees of the "Pilgrim Trust," established by a gift of $5,000,000 by E. S. Harkness, American railway magnate, have been flooded with thousands of applicants from all parts of England for participation in the social and educational benefits for which the trust was organized.

Poverty Is Blamed for Mob Violence

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Poverty and lack of education are responsible for lynchings in the opinion of a national commission studying the causes of mob violence, George Fort Milton, editor of the Chattanooga (Tenn.) News, who is chairman of the group, has issued a preliminary report on its findings.

$570,000 Bonus for 8000

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Bank of America National Trust & Savings Association of California, controlled by the Transamerica Corp., will distribute extra compensation aggregating $570,000 to 8000 employes prior to Christmas.

Good Times Coming Back, Says Insull

Philadelphia, Dec. 10 (AP)—Samuel Insull, head of the Insull Utilities, told the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce today:

"Bright days will come again because courage and character will make them come. Good times will not come as a gift of government, or a gift of providence, but as an effort of the people."

SPANISH RIOTS START ANEW

Valencia, Spain, Dec. 10—Rioting broke out again today as strikers fought with police guarding non-union bakery workers. One man was critically wounded by police who fired into the mob. Two were killed yesterday.

Throughout the morning shots were heard throughout the city as police fired into the air dispersing crowds.

Business was paralyzed. Powerful citizens feared to venture outdoors.

Originally the strike arose from differences between carpenters and their employers. It was to last 48 hours, but there were prospects today the trouble might continue longer.

Meyer Nomination O.K.'d

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Senate banking and currency committee today approved the nomination of Eugene Meyer to the Federal Reserve Board.

Violet Ray Seen as Goitre Cure After Hen Test

By GOBIND BEHARI LAL
United Press Science Editor

New York, Dec. 10—Radiation of patients with ultra-violet rays might prove to be a powerful means of preventing or curing goitre.

This is suggested from the result of experiments made upon a group of barred rock chickens by Dr. Kenneth B. Turner of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University.

He found that when chickens were deprived of ultra-violet light, they developed goitre or enlargement of their thyroid glands.

The presumption is strong that what is true of chickens is also valid in human cases. Prof. Turner's tests, if applied to man with the same results, would mean that ultra-violet rays are necessary for the sound action of thyroid glands.

The interesting point is that in these experiments the chickens were fed cod liver oil, but still the goitre was produced.

Seventy chickens were used. Half of them were treated as controls, the rest as experimentals.

Egypt Puts Check on Cotton Jobbers

Cairo, Dec. 10 (AP)—The government cotton commission today announced it would suspend all jobbers' business at Alexandria for 13 days, beginning tomorrow. The Alexandria cotton market opened steadier today with Ashmouni Dec. at $10.75 a cwt. Feb. $10.98, and Sakellaridis Jan. $14.18, as compared with $10.20, $10.55 and $13.55 at yesterday's close. Experts said there is enough Sakellaridis at Alexandria to meet the requirements of the season with two-thirds of the crop to arrive.

"Red" Plot Blocked

Berlin, Dec. 10 (AP)—Twenty-four persons were arrested yesterday when police discovered an alleged Communist bomb cache at Pirmasens, in the Palatinate.

WOOL HOLDING OWN IN SLUMP

Colorado Springs, Col., Dec. 10 (AP)—Wool growers and manufacturers have received benefits from cooperative efforts to stabilize wool prices during the year, F. J. Hagenbarth, president of the National Wool Growers Association, said in opening the annual convention here today.

The wool grower is receiving full benefit of the wool tariff, and wool has fairly held its price when other staple commodities have fallen viciously to lower levels, he said.

Turning further advertising to increase lamb consumption, he said more and stabilized bid to the conclusion that there was no overproduction of lamb, but undue consumption.

A fund of $325,000 is to be raised for advertising this year, and the executive committee of the National Association has proposed a fund of $400,000 as a mark at which to aim, he declared.

Roger Gillis, of Del Rio, Tex., president of the National Wool Marketing Corp., said the corporation this year had controlled 35 per cent of the domestic wool output and 85 per cent of the mohair crop. A total of $37,000,000 has been advanced to growers by the corporation, whose policy is to stabilize prices and advance them when conditions warrant.

Bazaar at Y. W. C. A. to Aid Scholarship Fund

By NANCY BREWSTER

For nine hours, tomorrow, smart Boston will dabble in wares Armenian and Greek in the social room of the Young Women's Christian Association activities building, 140 Clarendon st., to swell the scholarship fund of the International Institute of the Boston "Y."

The annual Armenian-Greek bazaar and tea, sponsored by the Institute, will begin at 11 a. m. and close at 8 p. m.

From this sale, money is obtained which measurably increase scholarships for Greek and Armenian students in the American College for Girls at Athens, Greece. For the sale, many articles, such as antique towels, hand-woven goods, Turkish embroideries, Greek bags, handkerchiefs, Japanese and Chinese souvenirs and Russian toys, are imported to appeal not only to the eye of purchasers, but to their pocketbooks as well.

Miss Georgie L. Ely, executive of the Institute and Miss Olympia Yeranian, Armenian secretary, will act as hostesses. Mrs. Boolookian, Mrs. Irene Yphantes and Miss Christine Yeraman are to have charge of embroideries and prints; Miss Harikliia Yeranian and Mrs. Irene Canary, of food tables which for the occasion will sport such continental delicacies as paklava, kadayif, komaybiye, cheese cakes and apletz.

Miss Visiliki Philadelpheus will be in charge of tea, assisted by Arevalona Deranian and Elizabeth Garabedish, who will be in costume.

Jewish Juniors to Hold Bridge and Dance Wednesday

Next Wednesday evening at the Hotel Somerset, the Jewish Juniors of Boston will hold a bridge and dance, as the first social function of the council for the season. The committee has arranged the affair to serve as an acquaintance party, since the membership of the council is very large and no other means of mutual get-together is possible.

Bridge will be played from 8:30 to 10 p. m. after which the group will dance for two hours. Headed by Leo Gold and Edith Freidman, the committee includes Nell Soplin, Joe Sakind, Harry P. Cohen, Sarah Heller and Hazel Greenburg.

Annual Operetta to Be Presented by Dorchester Club

Dorchester clubwomen are rehearsing arduously for the operetta, "Bitter Sweet Anne," which is to be presented at the clubhouse, next Tuesday afternoon and evening, as the annual offering of the dramatic committee of the Dorchester Woman's Club.

From the choral class of the club these soloists have been selected: Mrs. Alice King Osgood and Mrs. Lottie M. Dunn, sopranos; Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, Mrs. Ione Riedel and Mrs. Dorothy Willard, contraltos. Mrs. Ruth Humphrey Knight is directing the music assisted at the piano by Miss Isabel Beal and Mrs. Clara Clark Reuter.

Miss Lilla Fries will direct the incidental dances, offering a specialty of her own, also. Miss Adelle Delano, Nancy Erikson and Helen Ellis will offer slave dances.

Others of the dancing cast include Eileen Bloodgood, Marjorie Decker, Sylvia Tuckerman, Patricia Dabney, Edith Harris and Mary Born. General dancing will follow the production.

South End clubwomen will be shown the intricacies of telephone operations next Monday when a switchboard demonstration and motion picture on transatlantic telephone service is shown at the clubrooms, 20 Union Park at 8 p. m.

At that time, "Hello Europe" will be revealed on the screen for the South End Women's Club. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Walter Giles and Louise Wood. Following the demonstration and film presentation a musical program will be offered under the direction of Mrs. Carolyn V. d'Elsmis, chairman of music for the club. She is also to direct the singing of Christmas carols by the club members.

A Christmas party will be given by the club Thursday, Dec. 18, especially intended for 24 elderly ladies of the South End. There will be an entertainment and distribution of gifts.

Maurice Colbourne, representing the Theater Guild of New York, will speak of Bernard Shaw tomorrow afternoon at the regular meeting of the Daughters of Massachusetts at the Hotel Kenmore. Mrs. James C. Otis will preside and introduce the speaker.

Of particular interest will be the presentation to Mrs. Frank G. Allen of an honorary life membership card for her daughter, Marjorie Wallace Allen.

The vice-presidents of the Daughters of Massachusetts who will serve as hostesses are Mrs. William J. McDonald, Mrs. J. Herbert Libby and Mrs. James C. Peabody.

SAVING ON FEET

It is misguided economy to attempt to save on feet. It is the utmost in folly, because saving the feet themselves ought to be the first consideration of any woman.

Foot troubles, generally caused by ordinary or poorly constructed shoes, rob women of comfort, of energy, of youth.

Arch Preserver Shoes have proven that they actually prevent and correct foot troubles—as no other shoe can possibly do. The special exclusive features of Arch Preserver Shoes provide bare-foot comfort.

And because they are so well-made, of such quality materials, they give extra long service.

Leaders Attend Benefit at Tremont Theater for Free Hospital for Women

"GREEN GROW THE LILACS" attracted a large society patronage at the Tremont Theater last evening for the benefit of the Free Hospital for Women. The house was well-filled and very smartly gowned. It appears to a close observer that there have been more evening wraps and tail-coats worn this season than for many past and it is pleasant to see Boston society show its colors. Mrs. Ross Whistler was chairman of the entertainment committee and although she was not observed in the boxes we feel sure that she was among those present.

MRS. MOSES WILLIAMS, also a member of the committee which is sponsoring Free Hospital for Women nights on Tuesdays of the Theater Guild series, was charming in black chantilly with silvered jacket and in her box party were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Dodge, Miss Williams and Mr. Moses Williams, Jr. The J. Pierpont Stackpoles were in a box with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Fay, and in the orchestra were Mrs. George Peabody Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Saltonstall, Mr. and Mrs. Gelston King, Mrs. Dana Orcutt, Mrs. James Jackson and her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Penn, Mr. Reginald Ward, Miss Charlotte White and Mrs. Stodder, the women very chic in simple black gowns, very long, with handsome jewels. The Misses Leland, Margaret and Louisita were very pretty in white and mink wraps. The next offering is "The Apple Cart" by George Bernard Shaw on Tuesday, January 6.

MRS. MOSES WILLIAMS 18 directing a sale of handicraft of the blind to be held at the Copley-Plaza on Friday, December 19, from 10 until 5 o'clock. All of the proceeds from the sale will be given to the blind workers and is another activity sponsored by the National Civic Federation.

Rich Fabrics and Furs for Evening

By ANN ARDEN

ULTRA MODERN styles, combined with old-time elegance, give diversity and individuality to the mode during this festive season. Vionnet had the courage to sponsor frocks of brilliant tones just as we were all getting a little tired of hearing "it's an all-black season."

* * *

WHETHER YOU are blonde or brunette you should include at least one red frock in your winter wardrobe. The numerous shades introduced at the midseason showings of new designs by Paris couturiers offer a wide variety and an interesting list. Perhaps you'd like a frock of Burgundy. Brick, pimento and tangerine are other reds that Paris endorses.

* * *

THE DEVASTATINGLY lovely evening gown pictured is by Vionnet in rust red velvet. The bodice and upper skirt are cut diagonally to form pointed sections; the neckline is a squared V, deeper in back, the narrow tie belt is of the velvet. The circular bell-like skirt is edged in brown fox fur.

* * *

THE WIDE composition bracelet is toned ruby red; and the necklace is of onyx, marcasite and coral.

* * *

VIONNET'S EVENING gowns of stiff velvet in jewel tones for supple young figures are extremely chic, different and so romantic they make one quite beautiful.

* * *

OUR COLOR world is topsy-turvy with bright colors and pastels sponsored for daytime and street colors for evening. Brown, black, navy blue, dark red are some of the colors that are invading the evening mode after years of exile on the active list of daytime fashions. Simplicity of design and careful combinations of colors adds to the effectiveness of these somber hues.

* * *

WELL BEGLOVED one must be in a season when the glove is an integral part of the ensemble. If you have been wondering whether to get above-the-elbow length gloves or shorter ones you will be interested to hear that the 12-button length is a popular one. At the recent opening of the Metropolitan opera in New York, the 12-button glove in white was most frequently seen. When longer gloves are worn they are wrinkled at the wrist in a casual manner.

THERE'S MAGIC IN THIS LAMP

It is nothing short of magic the transformation that a good lamp will make in the appearance of a room. This Chinese crackle jar base with its beige silk shade will do the trick. The base is a reproduction of an antique five colour jar. And the hand-painted panels on the shade carry out the same effect. Place it on a living room table, shut your eyes, and presto, you have a new room. Incidentally it is true magic that we can offer a lamp and shade of this quality complete for $55.

Wrestling Moguls Should Sign Up Mexican Champion ↑ He Is Greatest Drawing Card Sport Ever Had Ever Hear of Him — His Name Is Dempsey?

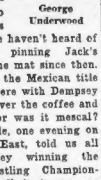
Boston this winter apparently is to be afflicted with an epidemic of wrestling. To compete with Paul Bowser, who has the greatest stable of grappling champions and mat mastadons in captivity, the honorable directors of the Boston Garden Corporation are importing Senor Harry Fabiano with another troupe of trained seals and performing elephants. Before the Braves and the Red Sox swing North next spring Boston will have a peak at more wrestling champions than you e'er dreamed were in heaven or earth, Horatio. But why don't Bowser or Fabiano hurry up and sign up the Champion of Mexico? The Mexican Champion happens to be the greatest drawing attraction sport ever saw or ever will see. But whis-a-st, Bowser is supposed to be out California way now. Maybe he is out there trying to lasso the Mexican champion and will bring Dempsey back to Back Bay with him.

Dempsey? Mexican Wrestling Champion? What's the connection? We hear you query. A strong connection. Dempsey and the Mexican Wrestling Champion are one and the same person. The old Manassa Mauler has a gold medal to prove it. Jack won the heavyweight wrestling championship of Mexico and still holds it. Anyway we haven't heard of any Greaser pinning Jack's shoulders to the mat since then. So apparently the Mexican title still remains here with Dempsey in America. Over the coffee and aguardiente—or was it mescal?—Gene Normile, one evening on his last trip East, told us all about Dempsey winning the Mexican Wrestling Championship. We'll tell it to you as Gene told it to us. It is Gene talking now, but we'll omit the quotes.



George Underwood

Dempsey and Jimmy Walker, Mayor of New York, share one thing in common, a remarkable power of adapting themselves to the occasion or the company they are in. Each is equally at home on the Bowery or Fifth Avenue. Each of them, although he may travel with kings, never lose the common touch. Neither of them ever has failed to catch the spirit of an occasion and enter into it.

Dempsey, Sunny Jim Coffroth, Tex Rickard and a bunch of us, including Gen. Albelarado Rodriguez, Governor of Lower California, and Gen. Montos left Los Angeles in a special car one evening to help the late General Obregon, President-elect of Mexico, celebrate his birthday on the immense Obregon estate in Sonora.

Coffroth, because of his racing and mining interests in Mexico, had to be in close touch with the powers that be across the border. No Mexican ever was closer to Gen. Obregon than Jimmy Coffroth. Whoever was Coffroth's friend was Obregon's, too. Dempsey particularly was a great favorite with Obregon. We had some wonderful parties down there on the palatial ranch in Sonora.

WET, VERY WET

Well, this party in particular, started wet and grew wetter and wetter. Wine flowed in buckets. As the train lurched on through the night our Mexican friends, inveterate gamblers like most Latins, suggested poker. We obliged.

When the game broke up Gen. Rodriguez, who, by the way, was educated at the University of Arizona, player third base on the Arizona nine and played it well, found himself indebted to Dempsey to the extent of about $1900.

Rodriguez nonchalantly wrote out a check and handed it to Dempsey. Jack just as nonchalantly took it and tore it to tiny bits.

"What's the matter?" queried the governor of Lower California, not knowing whether to be offended or not.

Dempsey explained that he was only in the game for fun and certainly was not going to take that much money from a friend just for fun.

"Esta loco, Senor Dempsey," volunteered Gen. Montos, who was getting well in his cups, and then informed Gen. Rodriguez that all Los Yanquis were crazy too.

The wine continued to flow. More and more of it continued to flow down the throat of the bullnecked Gen. Montos, who was a mountain of a man, a Mexican Hercules. From exhilaration Montos passed to surliness and he started to pick on Dempsey. Jack laughingly took all of the huge Mexican's taunts and joshed him back.

Montos in Mexican said Jack looked like a woman and ti.at his mouth was "nido de besas," a nest for kisses. Jack who understands considerable Mexican, almost busted his vest laughing at that, but it only made Montos all the more riled. He told the world that Dempsey was a baby for he had a baby face.

Winking at Coffroth and Gen. Rodriguez to let us know he was only acting, Dempsey jumped to his feet and apparently deeply insulted and with blazing from his eyes, snarled:

"I'm a tough guy, General Montos. I may have a baby face but I'm a tough hombre! A tough hombre, get me? There isn't anyone going to call me 'baby face' and get away with it!"

"Y con mujer tan bella y fresca!" cynically exclaimed Montros, lifting his great bulk from the chair. "And with a wife so beautiful and young!" The general really did imagine he was going to kill Dempsey and make a widow out of the beautiful Estelle Taylor.

"El rey va hasta do pede, y no hasta quiere," grandiloquently continued the giant Montros, lurching at Dempsey with huge arms waving threateningly. "The king goes as far as he may, not as far as he would."

"Hold on General," snapped Dempsey, trying hard to keep from laughing." I'm a great American fighter. It isn't fair to me to make you meet me at my own game. But you are a much bigger man than I am. You are stronger. Instead of fighting we will wrestle."

"Car-r-ramba!" roared the giant Montos. In Mexican he added that he would tear Dempsey's pigeard out and give it to the buzzards.

Well, to make a long story short Dempsey leaped at the huge caballero, seized him with that headlock he always was practicing on Bull Montana, whirled him off his feet and dumped him on his sitdown with a thud that shook the train and made some of the peons along that way think that another earthquake had hit Sonora.

Montos passed out. Half a dozen of us lifted him into a berth. He was still snoring peacefully when we pulled in at the Obregon ranch. It took a dozen of Obregon's peons to carry the Mexican mastadon off the train.

The party at Obregon's lasted three days. Finally "El pan comido, la comanda," the bread eaten the company dispersed, as they say south of the Rio Grande.

A few days after Dempsey had returned to Los Angeles a registered package was left at his door. Jack opened it. Inside was a diamond studded gold medal on which was inscribed:

"Jack Dempsey, Heavyweight Wrestling Champion of Mexico."

It was a gift from Gen. Montos from whom Dempsey had "won the title." It was a nice Castilian way of sending apologies and making amends.

Now you know how Jack Dempsey became the "Wrestling Champion of Mexico." If the rival wrestling promoters here want to corral the greatest gate attraction the game ever knew, or ever will know, they better hurry up and get Jack Dempsey's John Hancock on a wrestling contract.

P. S.—Their chance of signing Dempsey up might bring ten cents in the open market.

Terrier Coach Cuts Swimming Squad

Coach Jack Wallace has sliced 45 men from a Boston University swimming squad of 60 and will now start developing the 15 men retained in hopes of giving the Terriers its first good tank team in several years.

The men who have been retained are Alex Huston, Dwight Stacey, "Bud" Gardner, Warren Kellogg, Dick Knowles, Ed Markley, George Guyette, Carl Clem, Earl Hudson, Walter Facey, Frank Vogel, Wylie MacIvor, Howard Bannister, Bob Spooner and Clarence Loftren.

NAVY COACH IS SURE OF WIN

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 10—Bill Ingram, football coach at the Naval Academy, is not worrying a great deal about the charity game with the Army, at New York on Saturday.

"It's just another game, and we are preparing as we would for any other team," he said. "We'll give 'em a battle."

Ingram put his first string men through a skeleton scrimmage, using nothing but tackles and ends against them, in an attempt to smooth their blocking for the plays to be sprung against the Army style of defense.

Ingram is planning to use his best backfield to start the game, with Bauer at quarterback, Lou Kirn and Johnny Gannon at the halves and Oscar Hagberg at fullback. It was this combination he used today, and alternated it with another having Rusty Williams at quarter, Joe Tschirgi and Tommy Hulley at the halves and Jack Campbell at fullback.

Army Has Hardest Scrimmage of Year

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 10—The Army football squad went through one of the hardest scrimmages of the season in preparation for Saturday's charity game against the Navy. Practice will be open to the cadets and residents of the post all this week.

During the defensive part of the scrimmage, the plebe team put on Navy plays with considerable success. Johnson, plebe halfback, repeatedly found holes in the line and bored through for substantial gains.

A new formation made its appearance in the drill. Coaches said it had been designed for use against Notre Dame but weather conditions prevented its use. They hope it will be effective Saturday.

Ed Messinger, right end, joined the injured list today with a shoulder injury received in Monday's practice. Trainer Wayne Hauck expects to have him in condition by Saturday.

DOUBLE COURT BILL AT B. U.

B. U.		BROWN
Berry, lf.	f.g.	Mantell
Epstein, rf.	lf.	Hemebright
Nims, c.	c.	Skinner
Semino, lg.	rf.	Snyder
Tripp, rg.	lf.	Culken

A basketball double-header will open the Boston University court season tonight at the St. Botolph st. gymnasium, when the varsity and freshmen teams battle the Brown varsity and Cub fives.

The Terriers are depending upon Bob Berry and Captain Nims to open their season with a victory. Berry has been the high scorer on the team for two years, and is the best forward the intown school ever had.

Captain Nims will start tonight's game at center. He has alternated at forward and center for the past three years. This year the Terrier leader will be used at the pivot position only, and by devoting all his time to that one job, he should have a big year.

Tonight's affair will also be the opener for Brown. Coach Rufe Bond has the makings of one of the strongest teams Brown has ever had. He will put a veteran team on the floor tonight with the exception of center.

Old Bill Captures New Orleans Feature

New Orleans, La., Dec. 10 (US)—Mrs. E. M. Holmes' Old Bill responded resolutely when challenged and withstood Voltmeter in a long drive to win the fifth race, a climbing affair which served as the day's headliner at Jefferson Park.

The winner paid $6 for a $2 ticket in the mutuel machines.

MIKE CHAMBERS

THE CADETS WILL BE SHOWN NO MERCY on next Saturday afternoon at the Yankee Stadium where the service series is renewed for the sake of charity. Above are four Midshipmen who are ready to hoot the Army Mule. They are Mike Chambers, tackle; Bert Davis, quarterback; Joe Tschirgi, halfback and "Skipper" Bowstrom, tackle. The Middies polished off for their Army clash by beating Penn, 28 to 6. They showed power for the first time this season. And now the Army fears the Navy dreadnaughts.

N. U. Track Meet

Northeastern's annual Freshman-Sophomore track meet will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Boston Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, with the second year athletes favored to win.

Drill as Sun Rises

Providence, Dec. 10—Candidates for the Brown freshmen hockey team will have to be fast asleep long before midnight if they expect to attend practice on time for, according to the training schedule mapped out for them, workout for the squad will be held at 5:30 o'clock in the morning.

CORMIER IS ON ARGONNE CARD

Vernon Cormier, heavy punching Worcester boxer, has been signed to meet Vincent Trescott of Cambridge in one of the six-round bouts on the Con O'Kelly-Al Friedman card at an Argonne A. A. show at the New Boston Arena on next Monday night.

Eddie Mack considers Cormier one of the most promising boxers in New England and has signed him to a three fight contract.

Trescott recently stopped Albion Holden and should make things interesting for Cormier.

Another six-round bout will bring together Marty Galvin, Dudley boy who weighs eight who recently defeated Johnny Cuzner and Leslie Baker of Watertown.

Larry Hamilton of Cambridge will engage in his first bout since his return from Australia when he will tackle Lou Broadhurst of Worcester.

In another six rounder, Wester Arcelli of Italy will oppose Tommy Howell of Roxbury.

Harry Kelley says O'Kelley is in fine condition for his bout with Friedman and that he will repeat the triumph he scored over the Allope entry at the New York Garden.

Former Tilton Boy to Lead Wisconsin

Raymond M. Davis, formerly of Tilton school of Tilton, N. H., has been elected captain of the freshman football team at the University of Wisconsin. The election was held late in the season and Davis was selected from among 75 candidates who were retained through to the final game.

Davis played guard at Tilton for three years and was captain in his junior year. He also starred in soccer, ice hockey and field events and was president of the Student Council.

Yale Quintet Opens With 52-32 Victory

New Haven, Dec. 10—Yale basketball team opened the 1930 season by defeating the quintet of the submarine base at New London, 52 to 32. Booth and Linehan, stars of the gold squad, starred.

Reaves of the sub base was high scorer with 15 counts to his credit, while O'Neil led the Yale squad with 12.

Rockne Admits His Team Pretty Good

Pratt, Kan., Dec. 10—Knute Rockne, en route back to South Bend, with his Notre Dame football champions, admitted that he had a pretty good team this year. But next season well Mr. Rockne has his doubts.

Rockne said he would join a motor car corporation as soon as he reached South Bend, but would return to his coaching duties next autumn.

POLICE SURE SHE KNOWS WHO FIRED SHOTS

THE ABOVE FACSIMILE is reproduced from the Boston Evening American of October 21, 1930. When the retirement of Arnold Horween was made definite the Boston Evening American learned that Eddie Casey was to be Horween's successor. The authoritative story was printed on October 21. The story was made official yesterday. And once again the Boston Evening American "scooped" its rivals. And by almost a month and a half on this occasion.

BIG CHANGES PREDICTED AT HARVARD

The appointment of Eddie Casey as head coach of Harvard football and of Arthur Sampson as one of his assistants will mean a radical change in the Crimson style of football and the scrapping of the Horween system, according to close followers of the game.

Both Casey and Sampson are admirers and students of the Warner system of play, and it is very probable that Casey's own adaptation of the Warner system will be the groundwork on which he will build the Harvard attack next fall.

Casey is rated as a master strategist and football tactician of the highest rank. His ability to plan plays and to train men to effectively carry them out, has been proven while he coached the Harvard yearlings.

Since 1926, when Casey first took the position as freshman coach, until 1928, when he became varsity backfield coach, the Crimson Cubs registered three victories over the Yale yearlings. Previous to 1926, the Harvard freshman eleven had been beaten by Yale six times in a row.

Horween's Orders Casey Always Followed

While Casey never attempted to put his own ideas of offensive play into practice while he was Horween's backfield coach, it was evident that the former star differed from his chief.

Now that Casey will have full authority, he will have every chance to put his views into practice.

The appointment of Sampson in relation to the predicted change in Harvard grid strategy is significant. Sampson used an adaptation of the Warner double wing shift while at Tufts, and turned out the finest elevens Tufts has had in many years.

Although Sampson has never played football, he has been a close student of the game, and his views will coincide with those of his chief.

Casey Insists on Speed and Team Play

In coaching the Harvard freshmen eleven, Casey has stressed speed in play, and in carrying out his basic attack, interspersed with enough passing to make his fundamental plays successful.

Horween built his attack around the lateral pass. He had little success in his first year, and eliminating his victories over Yale, his entire career as coach could hardly be termed brilliant.

Harvard men look to a new era in football with the appointment. Casey, and with a fair breaks fall, Harvard should regain the glory that was hers in the glorious reign of Percy Haughton.

Morrelli Chosen for All-North Team

Al "Powderhouse" Morrelli, Boston College's 200-pound guard, has been named by Coach Joe McKenney as the Eagle lineman who will represent the Maroon and Gold on the all-North team against an outfit composed of Southern players.

The invitation of the New York Council, K. of C., met with approval of the board of directors and Kenney was asked to make the choice of the two players.

The selection for the backfield position will be narrowed down to Marr and Autos as the outstanding senior backfield starters.

The game will be played somewhere in the South—the place has not yet been named—on Dec. 27, 28 or 29. The two teams will be made up of athletes of the outstanding colleges in the North and South.

Athletes from Holy Cross, Fordham, Manhattan, Georgetown, Catholic University, Loyola and 30 other outstanding institutions have been invited to participate in the game.

Fore River to Play Woburn on Sunday

The State Soccer League has two good games carded for Sunday. The league-leading Fore River team will journey to Woburn and the Morgans of Worcester travel to Thornton, Rhode Island, where they oppose the Victoria Mills eleven, runners-up to Fore River.

In the Connecticut League, three games are scheduled for Saturday and four Sunday. [illegible] at New Bedford, Brockton at New Bedford, Brockton at Providence, Pawtucket at New York.

On Sunday, Bethlehem Steel at Fall River, Pawtucket at Newark, Giants at New York and Providence at Brooklyn against the Hakoahs.

Tufts Recognizes Four Major Sports

At a meeting of the Tufts College Athletic Association, it was voted to go back to the old system of ranking sports in the college. There will be now only four major sports: football, basketball, baseball and wrestling. This was done over the protest of half of the student body, and of the athletic director, Prof. Clarence P. Houston. The controversy was brought up when awards for soccer were being determined.

The soccer team will receive only minor letters, as will the cross country, track, lacrosse, golf and tennis teams.

Bruins Thrill 17,000 Fans by 2-1 Win Over Maroons

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

OLIVER AND OWEN STAR IN TILT

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

The Boston Bruins thrilled a capacity throng of 17,000 at the Boston Garden by defeating their arch enemies, the Montreal Maroons, 2 to 1 in one of the best games of the season.

It was the Bruins third win in a row, and the Boiesmen seem to at least be clicking in the manner that sent them through last season at a pace never before equalled in hockey.

The Bruins scored in the first and second periods. A brilliant shot by Oliver put the Bruins out in front after five minutes of play, while George Owen gave the Bruins another score early in the second session.

The only Maroon marker came in the second period when Worrell, cleverly stealing the puck from Owen, shot the puck past Thompson just before the second period ended.

The third period was marked by savage attempts by both teams to score again, but the game ended without either being successful.

Bruin Sidelights

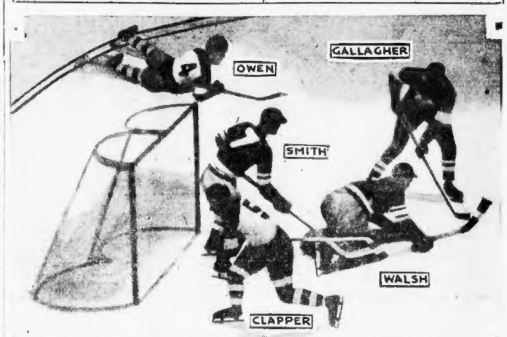
Harold Darragh, whom Manager Art Ross purchased from the Philadelphia club, was on the ice on the first time wearing the Bruin sweaters.

Lionel Conacher, one of the Maroon stars, was missing. The big iron star is in the hospital at Montreal with a severe case of grippe.

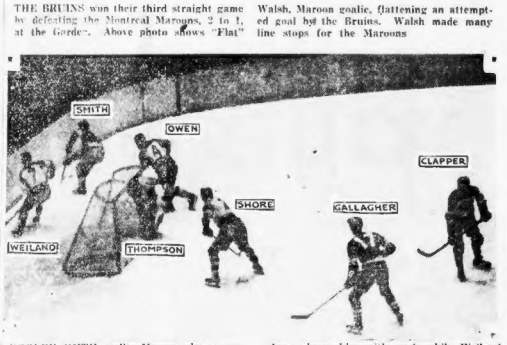
"Flat" Walsh, goalie for the Maroons, lived up to his nickname in the first period. Walsh flatted himself out to stop nearly every pass shot at him.

Eddie Shore made a double assist in the final period when Tex Thompson was pinched after the Maroons made a charge on the Boston goal. Shore used his body to protect his face and stopped up the rubber from going into the net. However, Shore took a two-minute penalty.

MAROONS MAULED BY BRUINS



THE BRUINS won their third straight game by defeating the Montreal Maroons, 2 to 1, at the Garden. Above photo shows "Flat" Walsh, Maroon goalie, flattening an attempted goal by the Bruins. Walsh made many line stops for the Maroons



HOOLEY SMITH, stellar Maroon player, was covered closely all during the game. Photo above shows him with puck while Weiland and Owen move to stop him.

Ex-Tiger Wants to Eliminate Forward

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 10—All efforts to eliminate the forward pass become much stronger when it is realized that it is of little value, the Rev. William C. Covert of Gloversville, N. Y., former Princeton halfback, suggests in a letter to the Princeton Alumni Weekly, that the only effective method to reduce the value of a touchdown scored through the air.

His letter makes no alternative suggestion, one that a touchdown made on a pass count only three points without the privilege of a trial for goal, or that no pass be allowed to be carried beyond 15-yard line.

Meehan Slated for 3-Year Contract

New York, Dec. 10—Chick Meehan has been recognized as head football coach at New York University under a new three-year contract is expected to be announced at the annual dinner in honor of the team tonight.

Meehan came to New York immediately from Syracuse in 1925 under a three-year agreement but it understood he has been operating under one-year contracts for the last three seasons.

Meehan probably will be signed for the next three years at the high present salary, which is reported to be close to $17,500 annually.

Hintz to Start for N. U. Against Clark

Elmer Hintz, New Haven junior, will start his first game for Northeastern basketball team tonight against Clark University, at Worcester. By making a fine showing in the opener against Union, which the Garnet won, 39—34, Hintz earned a regular position, replacing Charles Brown, high scorer of last year's strong freshman five.

The Huskies have won eight of the 13 basketball games played with Clark, including two last winter, and hope to hit their winning stride tonight.

McCurdy to Coach Wesleyan Mermen

Middletown, Ct., Dec. 10—Hugh McCurdy has been named coach of the Wesleyan swimming team this year. He is a former Swedish College star.

Nine dual meets and the New England Intercollegiates, which will be held this season at Middletown, have been scheduled. The season will be opened here with Rowdoin, Jan. 10.

Putnam Worcester Tech Grid Captain

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 10 (AP)—Donald M. Putnam of Worcester was elected captain of the 1931 Worcester Tech football team today.

Putnam a senior, played halfback last year, but has been out of commission most of this season because of a broken rib suffered in the game with Trinity.

CARDED STAR OF [illegible]

Philadelphia, Dec. 10—The board of directors of the Veteran Athletes of Philadelphia has singled out Frank Cuozzo, Notre Dame's quarterback, as the outstanding football player of the year.

The veteran athletes organization holds an annual dinner at which it awards trophies to individuals, teams or clubs for winning championships or for some outstanding performances in their respective fields of sport. The dinner will be held this month.

Leo Skladany, Colgate fullback elected captain last year, is expected will also be honored as well as the Notre Dame and Colgate teams. The Philadelphia club selected a mythical national champion football team and Cuozzo as the outstanding man of the year.

Others to be honored are Charles Gilbert Bull, backfield star of the St. Louis Cardinals; the Philadelphia Athletics as the baseball champions of the world, the Cardinals as the champions of the National League, Connell as the outstanding rowing champion, and Penn Athletic Club crew as the intercollegiate rowing champion.

Major League Soccer Club Is Sought for Boston

Boston soccer fans are enthused over the fact that major league soccer will return to this city after an absence of two years, provided that the American Soccer League commission grants the application for a franchise made by several Hub sportsmen.

The American League will meet Saturday evening in New York to consider the application and it is almost certain that the commission will welcome the addition of the Boston club.

The Celtics home field will be Brookline Town Field, formerly the old Tech grounds, which is unquestionably the best soccer ground in this vicinity.

If the franchise is granted, Hugh Wood, former London Scottish fullback, will be the manager of the team and the opening game will be played at Brookline on December 20, with an American League club yet to be named.

12-Minute Periods for School Football

Local high school coaches who will attend the annual meeting of the State Coaches Association, Saturday, at the Hotel Commander in Cambridge, will favor a request to the football rules committee that for high school football games it be mandatory in the rules that the playing time be limited to a maximum of 48 minutes, divided into four periods of 12 minutes each.

Amateur Boxers Battle at Boston A. A.

Entries now are being received by the B. A. A. for its amateur boxing tourney, slated for Dec. 17 at the B. A. A. gym. The affair is attended only by B. A. A. members and their friends. It offers the "green" ringmen an opportunity to get some fine experience. Good prizes for the winners and runners up.

All contestants must be registered A. A. U. athletes. Classes of the show are 118 pounds novice, 126 pounds open, 147 pounds open, 160 pounds open and 175 pounds, novice. Entries close Dec. 15 with Thomas J. Kanaly, B. A. A. Exeter st., Boston.

STECHER READY FOR WAGNER BATTLE

By RINGSIDE

Joe Stecher, former heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, planned to engage in a light workout at one of the local gyms today as his final tuning up process for his finish bout, best two falls out of three, with Jack Wagner of Providence which will be staged at the New Boston Arena tomorrow night under the direction of Paul Bowser.

It will be Stecher's first eastern start since his return from Australia. He looked to be in fine physical condition upon his arrival in Boston. He is confident he will win from Wagner and continue on to a bout with Sonnenberg for the title.

Stecher continues to rule a favorite in the betting.

Wagner, however, has quite a few backers who are of the opinion his aggressiveness and youth will carry him to victory. It is Wagner's plan to set a furious pace from the start in the hope he will wear Stecher down and pave the way for a winning hold.

"Bibber" McCoy, former Holy Cross football and baseball star, will meet a severe test when he will collide with John Grandovich of Russia in the semifinal. Bowser announced that this bout will also be to a finish. One fall will decide the winner.

Stanley Stasiak will have the clever Lee Wyckoff, former St. Louis University star, as his opponent.

Count Zarnoff will battle Sailor Arnold, while Al Baffert will tackle John Podnubbney.

MORENZ LEADS IN SCORING

Montreal, Que., Dec. 10 (AP)—Howie Morenz, speedy center of Les Canadiens of Montreal, continues to lead individual scorers in the National Hockey League, according to the latest averages issued by the league here, before games played up to and including Sunday night.

Morenz has scored 11 points on nine goals and two assists to lead his teammates. Aurel Joliat, and Fred (Bun) Cook of the New York Rangers, by two points.

Morenz's nine goals easily give him the lead in that department with Bill Cook of the Rangers and Charley Conacher of the Toronto Maple Leafs tied for second place with seven each. Primeau of Toronto leads the league in assists with seven.

Allen Shields of Philadelphia leads in penalties, having served 31 minutes on the bench. Joliat is runner-up for the "bad man" title with 30 minutes.

Gardner, Macaluso Join Eastern Team

Hamilton, N. Y., Dec. 10 (AP)—Cletus Gardner, Villanova veteran, will team up with Len Ilron Lego Macaluso of Colgate at the full-back berth for the All-East team which is scheduled to engage the West at San Francisco on New Year's Day.

MR. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

"What's the news?" Freddy Lane asked Mr. Boston, as the veteran popped into the Sporting Department today.

"I saw William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden Corporation, Damon Runyon and Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, having their grape fruit at the Copley Plaza Hotel this a. m.

"Out in Los Angeles tonight Gus Sonnenberg will defend his title as world's heavyweight wrestling champion against Ed George, who did his bit for dear old Michigan. It will be Gus' first bout since he won from Jack Sherry. The champion was obliged to call off three matches following the Sherry contest on account of an attack of grippe.

"Larry Doyle, who came to Boston with the Californian amateur boxers last spring, is at the City Hospital with a septic left leg which the doctors are considering amputating. Larry is a fine boy and his condition is a real tragedy.

"Jim Maloney and Johnny Risko have signed for a return bout at the Boston Garden.

"Pat McCarthy of Roxbury has resumed training at Toland's Gym, and will probably mingle with Mickey Walker.

Mr. Boston

Dusek and Steinback in Garden Bout

"Rudy Dusek of Little Rock and Milo Steinbach of Belgium have been signed to meet in one of the wrestling bouts to be staged by Ray Fabiani of Philadelphia at the Boston Garden on Dec. 19, according to Alek Sullivan, ace press agent. One fall will decide the winner rather than best two falls out of three.

"Jack Gagnon has left for Chicago where he mingles with Larry Johnson of the Windy City in a right-round semi-final to the Young Stribling-Tuffy Griffith bout at the Chic— Stadium on Friday night. Gagnon is a card in Chicago as a result of his brilliant victory over Griffith in Philadelphia and his ten-round quarrel with Tuffy in Chi.

"Al Lang has signed Jake Zeramby to mingle with Johnny Haydon, his Lynn rival, in a return bout at Boi Silva's Salem club on New Year's Day in a ten-round affair.

"Eddie Mack says he will try afternoon boxing at the Arena on New Year's Day.

"Jack Sharkey is training Ernie Schaaf for the latter's bout with Max Baer at the New York Garden on Dec. 19.

"I think 'Spider' Murphy looking over the box fighters. In his day, Murphy was a mighty nifty young man with his dukes. He chided George Carter about the time the latter paid him $5 to box Frankie Dubois in Melrose. When Murphy won, he received $12.50 for a return match.

Lamar Offered Bout With Mickey Walker

"Sioux City wants to book a bout between Henry Lamar and Mickey Walker. Lamar is ready to hop a train for the West as soon as the match is closed.

"There is talk that Sam Price will stage popular priced boxing shows at Mechanics building beginning next month.

"I might add that everybody is pleased with the official announcement that Eddie Casey will coach the Harvard football team next fall."

SHARKEY WILL MEET MAX

By JACK CONWAY

Jack Sharkey, the American heavyweight champion, through Manager Johnny Buckley, today agreed to terms for a world's heavyweight championship bout with Max Schmeling next summer, at a conference at the Copley Plaza Hotel with William F. Carey, president of Madison Sq. Garden Corp., and Damon Runyon, representing Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Milk Fund.

Sharkey has been a free agent since his bout with Victorio Campolo was called off.

The American champion recently agreed to box for the Milk Fund, but at the time it was not known whether the Milk Fund would operate in conjunction with the New York Garden.

As part of Sharkey's agreement, he has consented to meet the winner of a 15-round bout between Primo Carnera and Young Stribling which the latter plans to promote at Miami, Fla., next February.

Buckley said he was confident Sharkey could defeat either Stribling or Carnera and then carry on to a victory in the Schmeling match.

Carnera, it was learned, has agreed to the Garden heavyweight program that now Primo is trying to have his suspension in New York lifted so he may begin training for his meeting with Stribling.

It is understood Carey has talked with Pat Stribling in regard to a Carnera bout and that conditions have been virtually agreed to.

Sharkey announced that he had gone into training so he would be ready for action. The Boston heavyweight will keep working for three weeks. He will then take a layoff until after the proposed Carnera-Stribling tussle at Miami, when he will begin getting ready for his skirmish with the victor.

Schmeling is in Germany, but soon will sail for this country to keep a moving picture engagement. The German champion is under contract with the Garden and has stated through Joe Jacobs, his manager, that he will be ready to defend his championship at the Milk Fund show.

Tech Sports Show Balance for Year

The annual report on expenditures of the undergraduate activities at Technology for last year was given out by Robert Backus treasurer of the institute committee. The M. I. T. A. A. along with the 23 teams supported by the students at Technology, was run on a total ogf $16,358.87.

A feature of the M. I. T. A. A. that year sport is run on a deficit each one having to keep within its budget. The amount available last year was $17,246.30, leaving a balance of $987.43.

Colgate-N.Y.U. Game Nets $73,467 for Poor

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Colgate-New York University football game last Saturday netted $73,467.43 for unemployment relief. Total receipts were $79,053.50, with total expenses of $5585.57.

Tigers Again Lose to Indians

Springfield, Dec. 10—The baguelading Springfield Indians defeated the Boston Tigers here in an overtime period, 3 to 3, in one of the most exciting games here in years.

The teams were tied at two goals each at the end of regulation play, with the Tigers holding the advantage most of the way. The Indians' speedy offensive rattled in three goals in the overtime and clinched the contest. It marked the eighth straight victory for the home team in as many starts this season.

8 QUINTETS IN CATHOLIC LEAGUE

By BILL CONNELL

Eight teams will play this winter in the Catholic high school basketball league.

Two new teams have joined the circuit on the court, St. John's high of North Cambridge and St. Charles' high of Waltham.

Only a little more than two years old, the growth of the Catholic School Sports League has been remarkable. Last winter six teams clashed through a basketball schedule. The addition of the new members of the league should strengthen the group and give court fans some of the finest competition of the season.

St. Charles' high of Waltham has fine material and under Coach Donald Houghton should produce a strong five. The North Cambridge school, St. John's high, has a number of boys who have played club basketball and this quintet should be another team which will rank with the strongest in the league.

St. John's high has had baseball teams in the circuit and St. John's team won the baseball title in 1928, the first season the league was in operation. An independent court team formed from boys in St. John's played last winter and won most of its games.

The school has not entered a team in the league football competition as yet, though it hopes to have an eleven in another year.

Season Will Officially Open on Jan. 16

With St. Charles and St. John's in the league court conflicts are St. Clement's high of Somerville, Immaculate Conception high of Revere, Our Lady high of Newton, Cathedral high of the South End, Mission high of Roxbury and St. Mary's high of Brookline.

Jan. 16 has been set for the opening games of the league and will start a schedule which in the course of the season gives each team two games with every other member of the league, four games being listed for each Tuesday and Friday.

The league was founded and now is directed by Rev. Reynard O'Kane of St. Mary's of the Assumption parish, Brookline. The success of the league has been due to the constant work of its league head, who was himself a noted athlete, particularly as a basketball player, at Boston College some years ago.

Johnny Mesina, of Medford, who showed wonderful development as a quarterback during the season should be one of the best basketball players in the state this winter. Mesina captains Medford's five. He handles the ball perfectly, is a good shot and a fine leader for the Medford court team.

All American League Nines Must Wear Numbers

BARNARD IS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT

New York, Dec. 10 (US) - The National and American leagues started their annual confabs at the Hotel Commodore, but didn't really get warmed up sufficiently to accomplish much business of interest to the general public.

The question of the lively ball was allowed to slumber for another day and the screening and zoning proposals as antidotes against the home run epidemic also were shelved for future reference.

The American League did take one determined stand. It decided that all the noble athletes must wear numbers conspicuously displayed for the edification of bleacherites, grand standers and box holders.

Up until now the members of only three American League clubs have been wearing numerals, the Yankees, Senators and Indians.

The junior organization also held its selection of officers, President E. S. Barnard being re-elected for a term of five years. William Hardridge also succeeds himself as secretary and Frank J. Navin will [illegible] for the five-year period.

The draft row with the Class AA minors was discussed at some length and a committee consisting of the following was named to confer with a committee of the minors today:

President Barnard, Vice-President Navin, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, of the Yankees, and L. C. McEvoy of the Browns.

5,500,000 Fans Attended Big League Games

President John A. Heydler's annual report constituted the chief business of the National League. The most interesting item contained in it was the fact that 5,800,000 fans and fanatics attended the National League games during the past season.

Chicago had the largest home attendance, 1,300,000, while the Giants proved the best attraction on the road, drawing a total of 850,000 spectators.

The National League passed resolutions of sympathy on the deaths of William F. Baker, president of the Philadelphia club, and William Hanna, dean of the baseball writers.

Los Angeles Elks Plan Charity Game

Los Angeles, Dec. 10 (AP) - The far South, Northwest, Middle West, Rocky Mountain region and Uncle Sam's Navy are being raided upon to contribute football talent for an eleven to face a team of present and former Notre Dame stars in a game here December 27.

Officials of the local Elks' lodge sponsoring the clash announced today the following players had accepted places on the eleven which will oppose Rockne's men:

"Pest" Welch, Purdue; Bill Price and Joe Jonas of the University of Utah; "Rusty" Steele, Florida; Joe Citron, Navy, and Bob Wentworth, center, and Al Holmes, tackle, of the University of Washington.

Boston Entry Wins

Pinehurst, N. C., Dec. 10.—Dr. Frank Leahy's Junedale Lady Bird, a Boston entry, took first place in the competition of the Continental Field Trial Club of America.

Red the Devil, owned by Raymond Hoagland Jr., Red Bank, N. J., came second and Dr. Leahy's Junedale Mary was third. There were 22 entries.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

The golfer who adopts the strategy of pitching everything from around the green usually gets the habit of doing all his pitching with just one of his clubs, niblick or mashie niblick. This is at once a simplification step which should better his golfing skill for the reason that continuous use of the one club tends to make him better and better with it. Now if you use the niblick you must keep constantly in mind to be up. This club is heavy, and its loft is very great. Because of its weight the weakness of the player is to underplay it, since he does not realize that the additional weight of the club is offered by its great loft. This loft, when the blade is projected straight through the ball, imparts undercut which back-spins the ball. This can be depended upon to make the ball stop. Always give the niblick head a rhythmic throw directly through the ball. Never forget that your ball will be persistently short if you fall down on this. And by all means, look at the ball until you strike

Odds Drop on Chocolate to Take Battalino's Title

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

New York, Dec. 10.—Battling Battalino, the little Hartford Italian who holds the title of featherweight champion of the world, has attained serious consideration with the ringworms of Commercial Avenue, otherwise dear old B'dw'y, this past week.

Battling Battalino, who will come down from the state as largely given over to author-farmers, with a big following of his fellow citizens, is apt to enter the ring at Madison Square Garden Friday night to defend his title against Kid Chocolate of Cuba on even terms, in the betting.

Chocolate opened as 8 to 5 favorite along Commercial Avenue. Today he was no better than 6 to 5 due mainly to the fact that the Connecticuters commenced to invest in Battalino's chances, some of that dough they take off the author-farmers for fresh eggs, butter, milk and farm produce.

Damon Runyon

The advance sale of tickets for the fight indicates that there will be several thousand pounds of old Connecticut present at the ringside, the largest delegation that another state has sent to New York in support of a favorite fistic son since the Bostonians came down behind Edward James Maloney in platoons the time he met Jack Dempsey.

Fight for Benefit of Christmas Fund

The fight between Battalino and Chocolate is for the benefit of the famous Christmas Fund, and is the second world's championship battle staged by that particular fund. The first was between Johnny Dundee and Jack Bernstein.

The Battalino-Chocolate fight has expanded into a big show, though when the match was first made it was thought that a $50,000 gate would be nice indeed. The indications are that the gross receipts will exceed that amount by a considerable sum, the interest in Battalino being responsible.

When Battalino first won the title in 24 rounds from Abbie Bourin, his handlers frankly admitted that Eddie could speak to defend the title against the keenest of the current opposition. They wouldn't bring him into New York to fight, so the local critics promptly decided that he was what they call a "cheese champion."

Any champion who refuses to be locally a "cheese champion," defend his title in New York seems though he may defend it against [illegible] anywhere elsewhere. Battalino fought a number of battles in those days twelve-night thinner that did not affect his title, and he ran second several times to the home town boys.

When they decided that he was at last ready, they took Chocolate, certainly a high class featherweight contender, and they took him on terms that argues a belief that Battalino can whip him.

The reports that come down from Battalino's training camp in Hartford indicate that he is displaying sufficient ability in training to give considerable justification for this belief.

He is no fancy boxer. He is apt to be outscored by Chocolate from here to Honolulu in the early rounds. But we are given to understand by those who have observed his work that he is a persistent, sturdy, borer-in, who keeps flailing away at an opponent's body with both hands, and who is that type of fighter who is likely to be more dangerous after the 20th round.

The Quick, Brilliant Story of a Strange Love Triangle

GREATER BOSTON NEWS | BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN — A HOME PAPER FOR THE PEOPLE WHO THINK | 2d SECTION

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1930

GOVERNOR NAMES TWO WOMEN TO BENCH

Coral Glad Wilda Is Engaged to Logan

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Wilda Gardner, bookkeeper in a hardware store, is in love with Logan Townsend, who "has not spoken yet."

He is no Adonis, Wilda thinks, but he has a rare smile. This smile also attracts Bess Avery, a stenographer in an office near Logan's. Wilda's mother, Gracie, has been strangely distracted since the father died. He is understood to have left much money and she plans to leave the poor little cottage in which they live in Boston and get in touch with a richer life. Wilda goes to house party where she meets Logan and he tells his love.

By MAY CHRISTIE

(Copyright, 1930.)

"I DON'T see the McPhersons' Packard," said Wilda.

Grinned Logan: "I'll bet old Mac is having a last swig in the locker room."

He was correct in that. When Wilda had gone to get her wrap and was looking around for her hostess, Logan found Alec McPherson drinking.

"Wife developed a bit of a headache around 1 a. m., so Coral and her boy friend drove her back.

"I didn't guess the time—"

"No apologies! We're all young only once. And I don't blame you a bit—not with this little queen."

It was parked on the other side of the carriageway. They had been so wrapt up in each other that they hadn't noticed where Alec McPherson had left it.

Coral Suspects

She Questions Wilda

"You two skip into the back seat, and go right on with the billing and cooing," gurgled their host.

Wilda flushed hotly, while Logan whispered: "Mac's got a heart of gold, so never mind his kidding, dear!"

When the car had started, she leaned forward to the man at the wheel. "I'm awfully sorry about Mrs. McPherson's headache. If I'd known, I'd have taken her home."

"Oh, she'd another pair of brass swordswirts, so she was okay," chuckled Alec McPherson. "Part of the matter is—he observed the machine had been overheated, "she's a restless soul, and too much of anything bores her. Except with me," he laughed good-humoredly. "Though I tell her her beauty-sleep means a whole lot more to her than her husband's company."

The moon had slipped behind some clouds, and in the sweet and blessed darkness, Wilda slid closer to her lover.

Coral—her water-wave kept tight in place by a shingle-cap—was propped up comfortably in bed when Wilda entered their bedroom.

Coral had been deep in the pages of a novel. She closed her book and fixed bright and curious eyes on her friend.

Myrtle Arrives

With Rough Crowd

"Did you come home at last, old dear! And how! I thought I wouldn't get a peep of you until the little birdies were twittering!"

"Why, Coral, it isn't so late—I mean, it's half past two—"

"Quit stammering." Coral grinned at her friend impishly. "I'm glad to see you safe and sound, for heaven knows Alec's no great chauffeur when he's been drinking. I was torn between interrupting love's young dream or later discovering your fair young corpse by the highway."

"But he drove splendidly."

"I'll say you thought he did. If Old Nick himself had been at the wheel, I'll bet you'd have dreamed it was a heavenly chariot."

"Why, Coral—"

"Now don't get sore. Alec's a great sport in more ways than

PASTORS TO APPEAL ON SUNDAY

Governor Says Winter Gives Challenge to Ease Burdens of Thousands Out of Work

Gov. Allen today designated Sunday, Dec. 14, as the day upon which pastors of churches throughout the Commonwealth should "impress upon their flocks the desirability and duty of everyone to provide some work of some kind for one or more persons out of work."

"While we trust we may be approaching the final period of industrial and business depression," Gov. Allen said, "it is amply evident that we are confronted by a grave condition of distress flowing from the widespread unemployment. The coming winter months are a challenge to us to ease the burden on thousands of our fellow citizens."

The Massachusetts emergency committee on unemployment, of which James J. Phelan is chairman, is bending every effort toward the relief of unemployment and it has effected a state-wide organization which is rendering effective service in promoting industry. Gov. Allen said, urging enlistment in the work.

Dive Into Icy Water Makes Rum Suspect Quit His Flight

Tansey Williams, 40, weight 230 pounds, jumped from a second-story window, ran a mile and dived into Fort Point Channel to escape arrest on a liquor charge early today, it was testified later in municipal court. The water was cold and he surrendered.

Patrolman Richard Kelley of East Dedham st. said he bought a pint of liquor from Williams at the latter's house on Oneida st., South End. When he flashed his badge Williams jumped to a window, dropped 20 feet to the ground and started on the run down Albany st.

The policeman saw him dive into the channel and flashed his light on the water. He could see nothing, but he could hear Williams swimming.

"Come back or I'll shoot," he shouted, although he had no gun with him.

"I'm c-c-coming b-b-ba-ack," Williams shouted.

He was charged with illegal sale and the case was continued a week.

You can take advantage of low winter prices on used cars without having to worry about storage charges or cold weather driving. A Somerville firm quotes exceptionally low prices and will store all cars sold until April 15 without charge.

A Hanover st. cigar store which has been doing business for 40 years is on the market. The price is reasonable for quick sale. Stock will be included in the purchase.

Fur coats may be relined with satin for $8. A Temple pl. deal quotes this price, supplying all materials himself.

Positions are open for two men in the electrical supply department of a large department store. A reasonable income is guaranteed, but applicants must have cars.

Budget Example Would Be Great Help to Average Shopper

(The seventeenth of a series of interviews with Massachusetts women leaders, giving suggestions to those who buy goods and to those who sell them, concerning their mutual and vital problem of receiving and giving full value in every particular for every dollar spent. The eighteenth will appear in tomorrow's Evening American.)

By MRS. JENNIE LOITMAN BARRON

Attorney and former member Boston School Committee

IF I COULD SEE a shopping budget for a moderate income illustrated in some store it would mean more to me than miles of statistics.

We all realize that we have to apportion our income to take care of our needs, but many women would be helped greatly if they could see just what their money will buy, all assembled in a booth, and based on authentic, reliable information.

MRS. JENNIE LOITMAN BARRON

Some mother, for instance, who hesitates about what to pay for winter coats for two growing girls, knowing that the better cost requires a hat of corresponding worth and style, in the struggle to figure out what to buy for one or the other girl finally decides in favor of the coat she can pay for at the time. Later the shopper finds that she has to buy accessories to wear with the coat, that cost out of all proportion to the first purchase.

That is where a model of a complete ensemble would be worth much in actual saving to the shopper. A higher priced ensemble, suitable for a larger income, could be included in another booth, where clothing for all the family was shown.

Just to feel assured that the purchase is good taste and good value is worth so much to a mother of growing children.

Such an illustration might include menus of the balanced diet, recreation suggestions, rent, fuel, and other items that must come out of that same income.

This is a manifestation of that general craving for personal attention felt by every individual who goes shopping with that ever-present question in her mind of how much she ought to spend. Each individual is different and often it is just as important for a salesperson to advise a customer not to buy as to buy.

We sometimes become so obsessed with the thought of providing for the future that we neglect our present needs. This is not sound. While we believe in giving thought to the future we should also take care of the present.

It is all a question of relative values. Stores can help bring out these values.

(44 cash prizes, aggregating $550, are offered to college attendants, members of the Women's Trade Union League, retail store employees, office workers, for the best, brief letters commenting on any ten articles in this series. For further information write the Shopping Economics Editor, care of the Evening American, 8 Winthrop Sq.)

Sallies May Meet in Lynn Sq. Again

Possibility of the resumption of meetings by the Salvation Army in Central sq., Lynn, loomed today when Mayor Fred L. Manning declared himself to be in favor of the meetings. Commander Amos Strickland, head of the Lynn chapter of the Army, intends to file a bill with the City Council asking permission for the meetings and if it is passed Mayor Manning will promptly sign it. The meetings were stopped by ex-Mayor Bauer when he was in office. Bauer had Strickland arrested for impeding traffic and a $5 fine was imposed.

Guilfre Murder Trial Before Ex-Police Liquor Raider Faces the Court

The state is ready and the defense is ready for the trial of Oliver B. Garrett, but the court is not.

At noon today there remained 15 cases to be heard before that of the former police liquor raider, who is charged with extortion and conspiracy is reached.

"I cannot forecast the date of the Garrett trial until this jail list is further reduced," said District Attorney Foley.

MURDER TRIAL FIRST

"We have the murder trial of Carmelo Guilfre, which I think will take four days. All of the defendants have pleaded not guilty to serious charges and I doubt if any change their pleas."

The state is prepared to announce its witnesses today, been disclosed John F. Sullivan the state's star witness and secretary of the alleged Garrett extortion ring was seen at his home in Newton Boys Boy last night by Asst Dist Atty Dore.

"We are ready to go to trial at any time," said Herbert T. Calahan, counsel for Garrett and the co-defendants Mrs. Garrett and Miss Lillian V. Hatch. "I do not at this time plan to present any motion to the court for bail for Garrett."

GARRETT READS

The former raider spends most of his time reading magazines and papers in his cell and conversing with his cell mate, whose identity is still withheld from their cell both have a good view of construction work going on today in the vicinity of the Charles st. jail and both evince considerable interest in the activities of the workmen.

Alien Fights His Return to Italy

U. S. Commissioner Edwin Jones today heard affidavits in the case of Salvatore Ingaglio, an alien, living in East Boston, on a charge of being a fugitive from justice in Italy. Ingaglio was before the court at the instance of Secretary of State Stimson and the Italian ambassador. He is charged with participating in the theft of 248 lire and 30 sheep in Italy.

EX-GOV. BATES AGAIN GRILLED ON ESTATE

Ordered to Give Proper Accounting of $132,000 Howland Property

Former Governor John I. Bates, disbarred six months ago for gross misconduct, was ordered today by Judge Dolan in probate court to give a proper accounting of the $132,000 estate of Willard Howland.

Bates had filed what purported to be an accounting but it did not meet with the approval of the court and of Howard P. Jones counsel for Fred C. Howland of Malden and Mrs. Elizabeth Mason of Exeter and daughter of the testator.

The Howland trust fund they have learned only about $1000 of $65,000 left just prior to the mother, who inherited the estate.

At a bench hearing motion was made of $5000 to be accounted for by Bates and of some securities which he scheduled in his accounting, but could not show Johnson on demand.

The accounting was ordered for December 22. On January 22 there is to be a court hearing in the handling of Mrs. Howard's property by Bates who is executor by the will.

BOSTON 'CHEST' FUND SOUGHT

A community chest was suggested for Boston by the Civic Bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce today as an aid to the financial support of Boston social agencies.

The move will enable many agencies, now working with insufficient funds, to function more properly in the work of relief the bureau's special bulletin said.

$50 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received; $10 for the next best; $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

FIRST OF SEX APPOINTED IN STATE TO COURT

Mrs. Schofield and Mrs. Shufman Honored; Seven Other Appointments Are Made

Two women were appointed assistant justices of district courts today by Governor Allen, the first women ever to be named to the bench in Massachusetts.

They were Mrs. Emma Fall Schofield of Malden, present assistant attorney general, who will be assigned to the district of Malden court, and Miss Sadie Lipez Shulman, former assistant corporation counsel, who will be associate justice of Dorchester court.

MISS HOLMES NAMED

"The appointments made known that Attorney-General Joseph E. Warner will appoint Miss Sybil H. Holmes of Brookline in Mrs. Schofield's place as assistant attorney general.

In his statement, the Governor said:

"After very careful consideration and consultation with many outstanding citizens and attorneys, I have come to the conclusion that the time has arrived to give recognition to women in the judicial branch of the Government.

"For many years now women have been practicing in our courts. Thus for the first time in the history of the Commonwealth, I am today naming a woman member of the bar to the bench.

"Both of my appointees are attorneys of recognized ability and well known throughout the Commonwealth.

"Mrs. Emma Fall Schofield, present assistant attorney-general, was formerly in charge of the industrial accident board.

"Mrs. Sadie Lipner Shulman was formerly assistant corporation counsel and has had a wide experience in the practice of law for several years.

"In this connection, I might state that recognition will be accorded to another woman member of the bar, inasmuch as the attorney-general has stated to me that he will appoint Miss Sybil H. Holmes of Brookline as assistant attorney-general, to succeed Mrs. Emma Fall Schofield.

"All of the three women mentioned have been highly commended by citizens and leading members of the bar."

FOUR MAYORS RE-ELECTED, TWO DEFEATED IN HOT CONTESTS

HASTINGS IN DEFEAT OF DEVIR

Casassa Easy Winner in Revere; Heavy Vote Is Polled in Cities

Mayors Elected

BEVERLY—James A. Torrey.
MALDEN—William A. Hastings.
MEDFORD—Edward R. Larkin.
MELROSE—Robert A. Perkins.
NORTH ADAMS — William J. Johnson.
REVERE—Andrew A. Casassa.
WAKEFIELD—Louis L. Keefe.
WOBURN—Herman Peterson.

*Re-elected

Re-election of four mayors and two big mayoralty upsets featured the final municipal elections in 12 Massachusetts cities yesterday. Record ballots were cast in the majority of the cities, between 70 and 85 per cent of the registered voters going to the polls.

Malden, Medford and Revere easily re-elected their mayors while in Wakefield, Mayor Louis L. Keefe was unopposed for re-election. Surprise votes in Woburn and Melrose brought defeat to Mayor Philip J. Gallagher and Albert M. Tibbetts.

CASASSA WINS EASILY

In Revere, Mayor Andrew A. Casassa, with a majority of 3829 votes, swept ahead of James J. Brennan and carried with him the three candidates for councilor-at-large and the ward councilor.

He received a total of 6765 votes out of 9794 cast.

Mayor Edward H. Larkin of Medford received 10,832 votes, being re-elected by 4002 more than his opponent, former Alderman Donald N. Sleeper.

Mayor William A. Hastings of Malden was re-elected over his opponent, former Mayor John J. Devir, although the latter led in the primaries. A surprise of the election was the defeat of Alderman William Lanske in Ward 7. A vote of 17,165 out of the registered vote of 23,000 was cast.

SURPRISE IN MELROSE

In Woburn Herman Peterson defeated Mayor Philip Gallagher, seeking re-election. A surprise in Melrose brought defeat to Mayor Albert M. Tibbetts, who had 3 votes to Albert A. Perry's 4, a member of the school board.

Both former Senator James H. Conry defeated Matthew J. Hart, president of the board of aldermen, by a plurality of 261 votes. Johnson was re-elected mayor of North Adams with a plurality of but 60 votes over John J. Conry. A light vote was cast in Westfield due to Mayor Keefe's running unopposed.

RED TRIAL JURY DEADLOCKED

After six hours deliberation today the jury in the trial of four girl and eight men Communists in Suffolk Superior County, for a disturbance on Tremont st. in October still was out.

The white Rudolph Ghnes speaker at the street meeting, was tried separately for disturbing the peace and violating traffic laws. The jury in his case retired for deliberations at 3 o'clock.

The first jury once asked Judge Hobson to explain the difference between simple and aggravated assault on a police officer. He used illustrations.

Ghnes called the police "fascists" while testifying and he was told by the court he would be jailed in contempt if he repeated it. He later was rebuked for joking in his replies.

Deportation warrants will be sought against the defendants if they are found to be aliens, said George Y. Parker, who was in the courtroom representing Mrs. Anna C. M. Tillinghast, immigration commissioner.

A protest meeting of radicals was announced for this evening in circulars distributed around the city today, referring to the court cases, denouncing Mayor Curley and attacking the government for deportations. The meeting is scheduled for a hotel in Hanover at

Public Bequests of Quincy Man $56,000

Thirty-three public bequests totaling $56,000 and 16 of unnamed amount to as many charities, Protestant churches and institutions in the will of Richard D. Chase filed today in probate court at Dedham. Chase was a Quincy realtor.

To Mary Harper, now retained homemaker, he willed $5,000 and his real estate, including 25 acres and a home in Pembroke and all household effects and personal property. Upon her death the property is to go to the town and the First Congregational Church of Pembroke. The rest and residue of the estate after the bequests are made is to be divided between the 16 Quincy churches.

Youth in 3 Courts for Wild Cycle Ride

A round of the district courts of Newton, Brookline and Waltham was completed yesterday by Gustave Mennson, 20, of Cushing street, Waltham, as a result of a wild ride on a motorcycle.

After he was fined $5 in Newton court for drunkenness, he was taken to Brookline court on a speeding charge. From there he went to the Waltham court and was fined $25 for refusing to stop on signal of a police officer, while a charge of speeding was placed on file.

Smoke and Soot Peril Fine Arts in Boston Museums

"If the smoke nuisance from Back Bay hotels and apartment houses is not checked, invaluable tapestries and other rare fabrics in the Museum of Fine Arts and Mrs. Jack Gardner's Museum will be ruined."

David C. Chapman, director of the division of smoke inspection of the State public utilities commission, sounded this warning today.

"Among the worst offenders in Greater Boston are apartment houses in the Back Bay using heavy oil burners," he said. "These burners throw off acids and if not stopped it will destroy many of the fine works of art now displayed in the two museums."

INJURIOUS TO BUSINESS

Mr. Chapman, who has begun a new job of curbing smoke nuisance in the city, said 75 per cent of the manufacturing and commercial establishments in the town are guilty of violating the law relating to smoke nuisance. He stated that Cambridge and Boston are among the worst offenders.

"It is practically impossible for persons in the Back Bay district to hang clothes on a line now because of the pollution of the air," he said. "I have received complaints from some of the most prominent persons living in Beacon and Marlboro sts., including Lester Leland, Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, Frank Appleton, Henry Hall and Charles Fabyn. One of the old time leading hotels of the Back Bay also complained that it lost permanent guests because of smoke drifting in windows.

5 YEAR TASK

With the co-operation of the public I hope to eliminate 50 per cent of the present pollution of the air in Boston within five years. This pollution is due largely to carelessness. We have more trouble with old buildings than with modern, because of lack of combustion space under boilers.

"Where automatic coal feeding devices are used to replace hand firing, conditions have improved to come within the requirements of the law, if such devices have been intelligently installed.

"Escaping gas represents a financial loss and if the owners of buildings realized what the loss to them in dollars and cents is, they would soon take the guess out of firing.

"Heavy fuel oil is a big offender as it fills the air with dense black smoke and fumes of sulphur caused by attendants neglecting burners to do chores.

SPOT LAW VIOLATORS

"We are coming to the point where the department may find it necessary to put a ban on heavy fuel oil in densely populated residential districts unless more care is given to the operation of equipment."

DEATH THREAT CALLED HOAX

"It's not disturbing my sleep any, for I'm sure my enemies," said Stiles. "I just know of a soul who would threaten me. I think the investigation ought to be dropped because it must have been the prank of a schoolboy."

MODEL COACH BEGINNING TO TAKE SHAPE

Boston Evening American Chapter members of the Fisher Bodies Craftsman's Guild, who are keeping pace with these step-by-step instructions will soon have their coaches on wheels, for today's lesson takes up the shaping of the front axle and the splinter bar, two of the most essential parts of the running gear.

The spokes will be easily assembled into the wheels before long and from that time on, the coach will be easily recognizable even though hours of fascinating work will be required to complete its appearance.

MAKE ROSETTES YOUR WAY

Members will find in today's instructions a splendid opportunity to use their own initiative in working out construction details. The plans call for ornamental rosettes on either end of the splinter bar. One way of making these would be to carve them on the ends of the bar with a sharp knife or with small woodworking chisels.

Still another, as suggested in one of the paragraphs following, would be to rest them of lead, plaster of Paris or some suitable material. It will be noted that there are no detailed directions how to do this which means that guild members must work out their own methods. The greatest "kick" in model-making is to be found, is the one derived from getting outstanding results through means of one's own devising.

Because of the interesting problem afforded by this ornament to date, lesson is intentionally kept brief. Try various methods of making the rosettes using practice materials. Then go ahead with the splinter bar and the axle, directions for which follow:

NOVEMBER BIG MONTH FOR CHEVROLET

Detroit, Dec. 10—Pointed indications of a resumption of buying interest throughout the nation are manifest here today in hundreds of reports on file at the home office of the Chevrolet Motor Company revealing that the reception accorded the new 1931 Chevrolet Six during the early days of the national showing had only one parallel in the history of the company.

To meet the needs of dealers the manufacturing organization, consisting of 20 domestic plants, is working on a tentative schedule for the month of November of more than 60,000 cars. Despite the fact that this is a high goal for the month, the output of cars is already fallen considerably behind orders already booked, the sales division reported.

Telegrams from dealers and field officials in all parts of the country, offering an exciting cross-section of the public attitude, reveal that despite general business conditions unusual buying enthusiasm is being displayed. Particular interest is centering on the new sport models in the line, as well as the new commercial cars which are constantly accounting for a larger proportion of each year's output.

The price reductions, coupled with the increased size and improvements, attracted the eight show rooms crowds estimated as second only to the attendance during the early showing of 1928. Many points reported a greater number of appraisals than in any previous year, and when the 1931 production orders now being made is completed, the mark for the first 15 days is expected to compare favorably with any similar period during a normal year.

THE LAST MILE -:- By Lewis Allen Browne

CHAPTER 17

"I'M SURE you could, Mason—sure you could make that last mile with a grin." Dick assured him, "but not a chance of your doing it—you'll get a stay—and a new trial—you didn't get such a swell deal and everybody knows it."

"Hel-mes!"

It was a most sepulchral voice and it came from one of the cells.

"What the heck?" Dick whispered.

Mayor grunted

"A ghost down in eleven."

"Cell eleven—name's Werner or something like that. He's crazy—perhaps." Mayor gave Dick a long slow wink, hinting that perhaps the man was faking his insanity.

"Red tape, fac as we birds know."

"Hel—mes!"

Creepy Voice

"I'd get the heebie-jeebies listening to him" Dick said

"Yeah" In here you have other things on your mind, Mr. Walters so much worse that a nut or two hollowing around you don't mean nothing."

"Well keep a stiff upper lip Mayor I will get a stay and a new trial and that will mean that you'll never come back to this place in here." Dick, speaking jerkily and with an effort at a tone of assurance

"Oh I'm not so sure."

"Caught from some unhappy master whom unmerciful disaster
Followed fast and followed faster till his songs one burden bore—

But Ray Raven

For God's sake, Eddie Werner quit it will you?" came an agonized loud voice down the line

"Hel mes."

The crazy man, if he were crazy finished his bit from Poe with the words that so often repeated

"What does that 'Holmes' mean?" Dick asked.

"Nobody knows, but say, It's kind of creepy, what?"

"It's—it's—" Dic, hesitated, took a brace and managed to smile at Mayor. "Cheer up, you'll be out of here before long when you get the new trial."

"I'll be out—other that end for a new trial or down the long last mile and out for keeps, Mr. Walters."

"Come now, Mayor, don't—"

It wasn't the guard who came to with Dick who said this, but one of the guards who had been sitting down the corridor. He had come up and stood scowling at Dick

"Get back to your cell, disgood and down the line. The crazy's cooled down A plenty decent I was hard up the line

Some Good Guards

All right, you scum—you'll all be there long this guard

Mayor whis- some of the guards are and said the guard

"Don't worry too much; I examaugh and I are out to help you and your lawyer's a live one—see you later," Dick said.

Then he went taken out

He hunkered when he stepped into the court and breathed the warm air and felt the bright sunshine

"It's no sleeper for the guards," his guard told him

"Drake—he's all right, and he was—he's been in a couple of riots when he was in the big house and it soured him."

"It might sour him a little more if he expected to walk that last mile poor Mayor told me about"

"The law is the law, mister. If you've got any better plans than that death house and chair, tell it to the people who can make the change"

Called on Ethel

He had read a great deal about the death penalty, knew that the new amendment, especially that one famous words had written and signed by Eighteenth and efforts to be abolishment of death penalty.

Sunday afternoon Dick went over to see Ethel

"Oh, yes, dear—only I went up to see poor Mayor and he's depressed me terribly — all I could think of was that he was like some beast awaiting the butcher."

"Oh, dear, Dick—don't. It's so much nicer to dwell on the beauties of nature and the goodness of God—besides, he actually killed a man, and that was just awful—and he couldn't have been very—you know—the girl wasn't very—"

"Time's up, there, and over!"

She seemed very much embarrassed

"I suppose your sort, darling, and still they are humans."

"I suppose so—only it seems hard to believe there are girls like her."

"Not in your world, Ethel—and I'm glad of that. All my life I shall work to protect you—to keep such sordid thoughts away from you, dearest, Come, kiss me my car, I want to show you something."

Ethel went for the drive with him

"I will make me forget that terrible death house and that crazy man who quoted awful poetry and howled 'Hel-mes' and that green door and what Mayor said about the last mile—"

"Hush, Dick, please, I don't want to hear such things. I like my own sort of world best."

He drove out to a new development where pretty Individual cottages were being put up—not long rows of cheap houses all alike, but cozy little cottages with yards and hedges and no two anywhere near alike.

Ethel began to suspect what was in his mind

Had the Key

"Yes, awfully sweet—it would be nice if a person could afford it —but this liking a place and longing for it and knowing that it is years away—it doesn't help one to keep a sweet, sunny disposition —it's likely to make you break the tenth commandment and be covetous."

"Do ling, you couldn't break a commandment, and as for waiting for years—there, let's look at this place."

"I—I don't know, Dick—you should have brought mother—I can't go in there alone with you —think how it would look."

"But — but ——" she hung back and seemed very much afrid.

"As if I'd hurt you, as if I'd lay a finger on you," he said, reproachfully.

Ethel wanted to laugh She was thinking that if he was not such an awful sap he would lay a finger on her, to the extent of a little petting, or at least of trying Her game was to keep him literally at arms length

"I own this house, Ethel," he said, gravely

She stared at him.

"Not really?"

He nodded

"How awfully sweet — how wonderful."

"Well, it's in my name and a great, big, first payment has been made, I can swing it now cheaper than rent, but I shall have it all paid for within a year."

"Goodness! It's a beautiful place; I guess you are proud."

Ethel was surprised She had always lived in a rented home She was thinking, "Curse Cavanaugh—I guess I'll marry Dick after all"

"I'll tell you, dearest, I'll go back and get your mother or you can go through alone and I'll stay here—but it rather hurts me to have you mistrust me so."

He showed her

"I see a picture you, dearest there by the fireplace, the room nicely furnished, a little fire burning. And I'll be sitting near you, reading—"

Upstairs he didn't get up courage to show her the nice little bathroom, but he did swing the door open so she might glimpse in on her way back

This is the bedroom," he said it is a lovely big room, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Ethel

Dick went over and stood beside her—and took her hand.

"Our bedroom, dearest," he said, "I can see you—I mean—I was thinking—"

Blush of Innocence

Ethel had snatched away her hand This was not good an opportunity for her to lose

She looked at him with her great eyes so clear that she could tell them with an "age of innocence" expression and get away with it How she managed to blush was a puzzle, but she could do it

"Richard," she said, softly, "you mustn't talk like that; we're not even engaged—"

"But, darling, we will be—you won't refuse me."

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

Letters from readers on current subjects are welcomed. Letters should not exceed 250 words in length, should be written on one side of the paper, and must bear the writer's name. Names will be omitted in publication, if requested. Address Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop sq.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

Your item on immigration control suggests that this is at the bottom of the problem of the jobless. Countries as far apart as Germany and Japan, as England and the Argentine, are suffering from unprecedented unemployment. This is, of course, due to accelerated development of machinery. The United States jobless even during the summer employment peak, just about equalled in number the Mexican peons north of the border.

A bill to create the same quota against Latin America we maintain against Great Britain, Germany, Ireland, Scandinavia, Italy, has been in Congress for years. Last session it passed the Senate over 3 to 1. The House Committee approved it by an emphatic vote. Its chairman declared the House was ready to enact it by an 8 to 1 majority. Yet somehow its passage was again prevented.

It has been declared few Mexicans now cross the border. If so, why all the highly organized opposition to the same quo a against Mexico we maintain against Great Britain, Ireland, Germany, Scandinavia, Italy?

Very earnestly,
IMMIGRATION STUDY COMMISSION
By C. M. GOETHE, President.

Expense of Garrett Search Assailed

Editor Boston American:

The officials of Suffolk county certainly should be proud of the expense account in the search for Garrett! Over 122,000 thrown away on private detectives, etc! Think what that amount would have done in the relief of the poor! RUTH B. CHANDLER

Horton Called Master Golf Stroke Analyst

Editor Boston American:

I take great pleasure in complimenting you on publishing the articles written by Chester Horton during the last few weeks. He has discovered the secrets of the golf stroke and presented it in a manner understandable by the ordinary player. One can follow the aces in following a few simple directions materially improve his or her game. I have read a great many of the standard works on golf, but as far as I know if the authors of these books know how to make the stroke, they did not have the ability to analyze the stroke or present the (before now) secret in a way that could be understood I sincerely hope that you will continue with these articles and hope that they will come oftener than they have been coming in the past LEWIS P. India Is Seeking Only What America Sought

Editor Boston American:

May I be permitted to say that your editorial of the "Brown Man Racket" in connection with Rabindranath Tagore's speech is a harsh one. In fact it does not represent the true American ideals which the Asiatic people honor, respect and appreciate when they forget President Wilson's advocacy of self-determination of oppressed nations

When Tagore says, "The greater part of the world suffers from Western civilization," he knows better than anyone in the West about such sufferance because he is actually acquainted with the conditions there and feels with his people feel. Tagore does not say Western civilization is destructive in the West, but he says it is destructive in the Orient

The writer of your editorial defends the British rule in the East and goes very far in say that if it was not for Britian, the people of the East would all be in the jungle. I do not know what we would say, if asked why did not the United States protest against oppression and against usurpation. If the people of the Orient deem Western civilization, they do because they are oppressed. They decry British rule because they feel Westerners themselves (Americans) could not bear it

It is surprising to hear an American justifying the British rule in the East when he knows that his grandfathers restored to bayonets, for which their offspring are thankful now.

Please remember Mr. editorial writer, that the people of the Orient are following the steps of the American nation in seeking their freedom, and are confident of the American sympathy.

Time for Soldiers to Demand Their Bonus

Editor Boston American:

In response to the many letters regarding unemployment in the United States, I think it a about time that the government woke up and did right by the soldiers by giving them their bonus that they have well earned through the flow of blood in the fields of Flanders which they gladly gave. Now that some of them have been spared to come back they are left starving—with other citizens while foreigners from Canada and other places laugh at them.

So come on soldier boys, get together and demand your rights Every time a country is in trouble they call on the British to help them, but who is willing to help our soldiers and citizens.

They should pay the bonus at once and get things working in our own country. Never mind foreign countries, but take care of the needy in the United States So come on soldiers, leave no more stones unturned. Demand your rights and protect our flag. What do you say, Americans

Snappy Answer Irks Future Bostonian

Editor Boston American:

I am a stranger in Boston, Like the city very much and am thinking of staying

Why must some people be so mean when a person makes a mistake. I was calling a taxi for a friend and they told me the number. I called the party answered I asked for a cab to be sent to my address He was so snappy and said, "This is not a taxi stand. Can't people read?" Well it took me over a half hour to find one in the book. They are so complicated for a stranger. I sure hope that person gets the worst punishment some time an I gets the answer I did

Unemployment Leads Men to Crime

Editor Boston American:

It may be a hard thing to assert, but I cant dodge the truth that unemployment as it exists today leads to crime

Here a man and it is a typical case He has been out of work for some time. He has wandered from city to city with the same result. Incited by hunger and the need of a night's rest, he smashes a show window. He tells the judge he did this to get into jail to keep from starving. In jail, he is sure of three meals a day and a roof over his head This is no imaginary case It happened lately. Can anyone blame a person for doing something criminal in order to satisfy hunger? If you want to test such a case, get yourself raging hungry Go without sleep for a few nights Is it right to steal to get a piece of bread? M H JEFFERSON.

Merit and Demerit System for Auto Insurance Urged

Editor Boston American:

I see that the insurance commissioner Morton L. Brown, has filed a bill calling for a demerit system for compulsory auto insurance, wherein a man having a certain number of accidents is going to be taxed from 10 per cent to 50 per cent more than those not having accidents.

Now this system has been tried out in Connecticut and has not worked out very favorably because there is no provision for a merit system

What about the careful drivers who run their cars for year after year without having a serious accident? Don't they deserve any extra consideration? If we are going to make the driver who is careless pay more for his insurance, the insurance companies will receive the entire benefit in additional revenue.

While campaigning for election as Representative in the 20th Middlesex District I advocated a Merit and Demerit System which would take care of the careful driver by giving him a substantial reduction in his rates and at the same time make the careless driver pay more as suggested in the Brown bill

To my mind there should be some provision made for the careful driver and I suggest a merit system along with a demerit system, whereby the insurance companies get the benefit of a demerit system without a merit system.

Harvard Has Strong 'Political' Record

Editor Boston American:

Harvard University may well be proud of its alumni who have been elected recently to political offices. The record is as follows: Four Harvard graduates were elected governors, three U. S. Senators, and 16 Congressmen, one each in Texas Colorado, Oregon, Illinois, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Maine three in Ohio and New York, two in New Hampshire and six in Massachusetts

Columbia University is next in this kind of a record.

KATHARINE CORNELL TRIUMPHS IN 'DISHONORED LADY' AT WILBUR

GOOD ALIBI FEATURE OF PLAY

Richard Wadsworth ..... Harvey Stephens
Robin Carr ..... Ethel Linton
Rose Walsh ..... Phillips Bloss

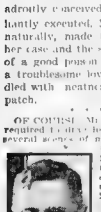
By NICHOLAS YOUNG

IN THE INTERESTING case of Katharine Cornell, now at the Wilbur, we can only say that the wages of sin do not necessarily send a lady to the chair. "Dishonored Lady," which Miss Cornell so gracefully adorns, left its audience with no doubts whatever on the subject of a good alibi, adroitly conceived and brilliantly executed. Miss Cornell, naturally, made the most of her case and the slight matter of a good poisoning job upon a troublesome lover was handled with neatness and dispatch.

• • •

OF COURSE Miss Cornell was required to give herself through several scenes of mental torture and she held her own until the last with a vengeance, moving in parts to heights that left the audience fairly gasping. A good friend who died here a gentleman in too many a time, Miss Cornell gave generously of her talents in moments that were big enough to fill a playgoer. Miss Cornell supplied From start to finish it was a job well done.



Nicholas Young

• • •

WHEN YOU STRIP "Dishonored Lady" of a paragraph or two, you find it a generally conventional story. It is not likely a good woman gone wrong but rather a bad woman growing worse. Spell of society, good breeding and a gentle manner covers a multitude of sins. The play is frankly modern, as we learned after Madeleine Carr had slipped an overdose of arsenic into her lover's early morning coffee. "Why didn't you tell me what you wanted, child, as a good friend of the family?" I could have had him bumped off for $200." All of which indicated, at least for the moment the utter futility of an amateur going after big game.

• • •

STRANGELY, Miss Cornell seems always to come to us in some form of the "dishonored lady." Her artistic morals, it must be confessed have been slightly Oriental—if not worse. In this instance they were considerably worse, for she added high crime to what otherwise might have been passed over as illegitimate misdemeanor. And yet she managed, not fairly well, but excellently. By names known only to the dramatic she squirmed her way out of difficulties—and always with a fine regard for every artistic aspect. With upstanding authority, Miss Cornell approached each bewildering situation. Her acting personal performance was outstanding.

• • •

IT WAS MOSTLY a story of sin—this "Dishonorable Lady." We may well imagine that Boston received it dressed in language tempered to suit the rules and regulations of the city code. There were no infractions last night and, naturally, all went well. Friendly and substantial support to Miss Cornell was brought into the performance by Paul Harvey, Herbert Bragiotti, Charles Francis and Harvey Stephens. Of these, we enjoyed the breeze and gentle mindedness of Mr. Harvey and the intensity of Mr. Braggiotti At no moment in the proceedings was Miss Cornell lacking in first class man power

Burgin Conductor of Symphony This Week

Dr Serge Koussevitzky will be prevented by temporary illness from conducting the regular Boston Symphony orchestra concerts of Thursday in Cambridge, and Friday and Saturday in Symphony Hall, Boston, this week Richard Burgin, the assistant conductor of the orchestra, will conduct these three concerts

The program for Friday and Saturday will include the "Little Symphony" of Krenek (first time in Boston), the piano concerto of Mozart, in A-major, with Bruce Simonds as soloist, and the First Symphony of Sibelius

The Cambridge program remains unchanged. Dr. Koussevitzky will resume conducting at the concert of next Monday evening in Symphony Hall.

ARTISTS GIVE SONG TREAT

By MOSES SMITH

A concert called "Old Song Dramas" given at the Repertory Theatre last evening, proved to be charming delightful entertainment. The principal artists, who never forget that they were also operatic stars were Gurlda Waller and Vera Maconochie, and they were ably assisted by Dorothy Hedges, pianist Kathryn Perkins, harpsi., and George Madsen, flutist.

This small concert company, now in America on its first tour, presents old music, vocal and instrumental, the entertainers dressed in costumes suggestive of the various periods and places. A suggestion of scenery enhances the illusion, as well as pleasing to the eye To add authenticity to the final group, termed "A Georgian Rason," which represented a typical music entertainment of the late 18th century in England, the piano used was the old Zumpe Square Piano of 1770, one of the earliest of piano models with hammers

Without going into other details of the program, most of which was folk music, sung either as solo or duet, the writer cannot refrain from expressing the delight this civilized, artful, yet human, entertainment brought, in place of the boredom experienced twice at so many other concerts of the type On a foundation of good voices, well used, the two principal performers added a superstructure with such ingredients as exact and pure enunciation, intelligent understanding of the music and text they were delivering, and interpretative skill of a rare order

The large audience was highly pleased. It is often said that concert reviewers are not "constructive" in their criticism. Well, here, for once, we can point an obvious moral to American singers

Queenie Smith to Stay Until Jan. 3

Public interest in Queenie Smith's engaging musical comedy star, has caused the Shuberts to extend the engagement of "The Street Singer" at the Shubert until Saturday, January 3. This will enable the comedienne and her big company to play a special midnight performance New Year's Eve commencing at 11 45 p. m., in addition to the regular evening show at 8 15 p. m. Additional features will be added for the special midnight show.

NORMA TALMADGE TO JOIN STAGE ROAD COMPANY

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
Copyright 1930 by Universal Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10- It would do your heart good to talk to Norma Talmadge. She has been so excited the last few days she could hardly get ready to take the train to New York tonight. Norma is leaving on The Chief to rehearse for the road company of "The Greeks Had a Name for It."

• • •

This will be her first stage experience and if you think she won't draw in the towns where Zoe Akins popular play is presented you don't know just how Norma stands with the public Norma said

"I felt all along I needed stage experience and when Mr. Schenck asked me if I would be willing to go with the road company I said yes, although it takes me away from home Christmas."

Louella O. Parsons

Later she will make a picture of this play, which was sought by Howard Hughes for Billie Dove, and by several others of the well known producers who saw the play in New York

• • •

JACK WARNER was delighted when I talked with him the other day, that a deal be made in New York to purchase "As Good as New," a successful stage play, had gone through. The play is by Thompson Buchanan and features such well known players as Otto Kruger and Vivienne Osborne. So far Mr Warner has made no plans for the play. Somewhere in the back of my head I have the idea that it is intended for First National and for one of First National's players. You know there is always rivalry between Warner Brothers and First National to see which studio gets which story, and Jack, being the perfect diplomat, lets them fight it out themselves

• • •

IT WOULD BE just too bad for Paramount to put an experienced trouper into the part of the song plugger in "June Moon." Harry Rosenthal, who had never had five minutes on the stage, was put into the role in the original company, and he was the contributing factor in making the stage play a success. Murray Smith did the same thing for the road show without experience The talkie not to be outdone, will have Harry Akst well-known composer. Of course it takes a man who is an experienced pianist. Thelma Todd plays the second feminine lead I saw Thelma in a Hal Roach short, and it seemed to me given a chance that girl could do something really worth while

• • •

GLORIA SWANSON may be back on the Pathe lot making "Rockabye" before she does the De Sylva, Henderson and Ruban number for United Artists Gloria has never been willing to entirely relinquish the idea of "Rockabye," which she recognizes as having much more good than bad in it With a little fixing here and there and a few changes she believes he has a good play as "The Trespasser" The De Sylva, Brown and Henderson play has been held up and since Gloria has made a promise to be back on the Pathe lot she told me she very likely she will make "Rockabye" immediately. Gloria looks unusually well at The Mayfair Her dress of wine color was offset by coral and diamond jewels, a unique combination and one that was different

BENNETT FILM RUN NEAR END

Only three more days are left in which Boston admirers of Constance Bennett may see their favorite in the Pathe song drama, "Sin Takes a Holiday," the picture which drew such tremendous crowds during the first week of its engagement at the RKO Keith, but it was necessary to hold it over for a second and a third.

"Kismet," the first talking picture of the distinguished stage celebrity, Otis Skinner, will be presented next Saturday morning, it having been postponed twice by the holding over of the Bennett film.

"Sunny" Coming to Uptown and Olympia

Saddles

In the earlier ages the Romans used neither saddles nor stirrups. Saddles were in use in the third century and are mention as made of leather in 304. They were known in Britain about 60. Side-saddles came in 1388.

Love at 14 Strong, But Quickly Passes

—By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. Write on one side of the paper only. If you wish a personal answer, inclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Otherwise, questions of interest will be answered through her daily columns.

Miss Fairfax broadcasts over Station WEEI every evening except Saturday and Sunday at 6:45 p. m.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am deeply in love with a girl of 18 and I am 14. I met him through his cousin. I went around with this boy for a year and a half. Then one day he gave me a note and dropped me as if I were a leper. He doesn't even seem to see me when we meet. I call me on the telephone and he won't do it. A girl friend of mine who lives upstairs from him tells me what good times they have together, so no doubt he likes her. How can I win him back?

DOROTHY S.

Beatrice Fairfax

Dear Dorothy S. You mustn't feel too badly about this boy. Love affairs at 14 and 15 are very strong and deep, but they pass quickly, and before long you will meet someone else you think you are in love with. I should make no effort to get him back, if I were you. There are plenty of other nice boys for you to get interested in, and strict attention to school work, outdoor play and other interests should help you to forget him for a while.

Says He Hasn't Forgotten

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

About four years ago I met a young man at college. We went together, although I was a senior and he was still a year behind me. After I graduated he continued to see me at my home. He asked me on one occasion if I could wait 'til he was old enough to marry him, and consented to do so. Something must have happened, as after that he never came near me. Last summer while on my vacation, he dropped me a card telling me where he was, and said he thought he would write a card to remind me he hadn't forgotten me. Was I wrong in not writing him, thanking him for the card?

ANXIOUS BLUE EYES.

Dear Blue Eyes: To answer your question, it would be quite all right to thank the young man for the card and say something to the effect that you still remember how pleasant were your calls. I see that you are a strong character yourself, and I feel sure that you will not write him a letter signal which as you say, love him. It's all right to reminisce and return; not too anxious however.

Use Common Sense

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 18 nice looking and very stylish. I am married and have a nice baby girl two years old. My husband is good to me, but there is no love or sport in him. Just sits around and does nothing and is only 21. I love dancing. You see, I got married very young, never had any good times, and now that I can I'm married with no love. I'm only young once and I feel as though I should have it. My parents would want me to do this as they want me to be happy, but they do not know about it. You are the only one and I am depending on you for advice. I have a chance to go to New York to work with a girl and have an apartment with her. My parents would take my baby and take care of her as they love her as much as I do. Please help me.

PUZZLED.

Dear Puzzled: You present quite a problem to be solved. I'm not sure you are old fashioned, and I know that young blood runs fast and hot. Too bad you didn't wait a few years before marrying, but that can't be helped now. On the whole I am inclined to think that a year or so of freedom with your friend in New York might be just the thing to convince you that home and baby are, after all, the real things of life. Work might help you, a quite a question. What to do with him? Will he stay at home with mother and baby while you are having a good time or will he take the matter to the judge and make trouble for you? It all depends on how broadminded he is. And of course, the whole success of this plan depends on how much basic common sense you have, discounting the urge of youth for a good time.

Bright Colors for That Extra Dress

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—What to add a little zest and color to [illegible] for the [illegible] just before Christ[illegible]

A Good Tailored Type

One of the bright colored dress[illegible] that is in fashion will do the trick. It needn't be an expensive one, either. Just the mere fact of its color will do lots to put interest into the mid-season wardrobe.

If you own a black almost [illegible]

Light Wools

[illegible] that you can [illegible] from, of course, preferably one that will fit easily into your plans for the next few months.

A [illegible]-weight wool dress will [illegible] comfortable enough [illegible] you may be in the winter outdoors . . . and ready to be worn without a coat when the weather is mild.

The dress sketched at the left illustrates the general type we mean. It has the wing at the neckline that makes it easy to wear any color this season since it's the white next the color that touches the skin. And it's a type practically anybody can wear.

A dress like this might quite as well be of silk, of course. But if you want wool it's a smart type to keep in mind. Because the smartest wool dresses are made on simple tailored lines.

Dressier Silks

Maybe you want a dressier type dress. But still one for daytime wear. Then a silk in bright color but one with very little, if any, trimming. Because bright color is decorative enough in itself.

The dress sketched at the right shows what we mean. It hasn't any lace or embroidery or buttons or anything—but in its design there's enough elaboration to make it dressy looking.

Incidentally . . . this one-sided bolero effect is quite a different bolero treatment from those you've been seeing. Not like all boleros, almost anybody can wear it. Because the bolero is hanging loose at the front gives the effect of a straight line at the side and back, filling up where [illegible] fullness or minimizing hip protuberances.

Dressier Type for Bright Silk

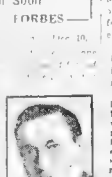
Goodyear Head Sees 1931 as Turning Point

Upturn for Rubber Trade Pending; Tire Output Gain Soon

—By B. C. FORBES—



B. C. Forbes

"Next year will probably see the most sober industry on the upgrade. Our inventories are now at the low point, the December and January sales will start the textile mills in Georgia and New England running night and day, at full capacity, for the first time in more than six months.

"Our tire factories will all in crease production 50 per cent on Jan 1 and will probably increase still further during the following five months.

"The industry has suffered from enormous overproduction. During the decade, 1910-1920, people felt they couldn't build tire factories fast enough. About the time this building fever ended, the need for their product had died down.

"You must remember that whereas a fabric tire used to be good for 3000 miles, every tire now are good for 30,000 miles. You see, your tire dollar now literally goes very, very far.

"The industry has suffered, too, from a shrinkage of 70 per cent in the price of its basic material, rubber.

"Notwithstanding all that the rubber industry has gone through during recent years, Goodyear has been able to earn better than an average of 9 per cent on its investment during the last five years."

CALLS BUYING MEDICINE FOR BUSINESS

Price Changes on Bourse Are Small

Paris, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Bourse opened listlessly today, only small fluctuations developing during the first hours of trading. Optimism had been expressed on the grounds of Chancellor Bruening's demonstration of strength in the Reichstag yesterday, but it apparently was offset by rising unemployment.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

LEADERS RALLY IN LATE WALL ST. TRADING

New York, Dec. 10—The stock market today sounded out the bottom level recorded just one month ago and seemed to hit hard pan for the list rebounded smartly in the final few minutes of trading.

After dropping about two to five points in the most active trading since the middle of November the market recovered about one to two points from the bottom.

SALES OVER 3,000,000

Trading was dull during the morning but quickened later in the day, piling up total transactions of about 3,150,000 shares.

A few large individual transactions, of which the largest was 50,000 shares of general electric, were said in brokerage circles to represent special transactions to establish tax losses.

After selling off 3½ and 4 points, U. S. Steel and American Telephone rebounded more than 2 from the bottom.

After declining about 2 points, General Electric, American Can, American and Foreign Power and North American, Regained about half their losses.

Shares closing 2 to 3 points lower included Bethlehem Steel, Case, Consolidated Gas, National Biscuit, and Westinghouse Electric, most of which were up a point or so from its lowest. Johns Manville sold off 5½ on a new low, then reduced its loss to less than 5.

As had been forecast, the weekly steel trade review sounded a pessimistic note, and the United States Steel Corporation reported an increase in its unfilled orders during November of 137,872 tons.

SEASONAL TREND.

Iron Age's estimate indicated that steel ingot production had sagged to 38 per cent of capacity, against 39 last week, but this was regarded as representing merely the seasonal trend. In fact, American Metal Market said the decline in steel mill activity, as reflecting general business recession, ended at the close of October, since when only seasonal influences have been felt. Orders and production have decreased since then, and to the same token there will be improvement after January 1, probably immediately after.

Dividend news included some bright spots. Despite some cuts in the contrary, New York Central declared its regular quarterly payment of 2½ a share. American Water Works discontinued its policy of paying only $1 in cash and 5 per cent in stock alternately, and placed its share on a $3 annual cash basis, with a quarterly disbursement of 75 cents. Atlantic Coast Line, however, reduced its annual dividend basis from $4.20 to $1.80.

Fresh selling of the rail issues speared over to pacific in response to the report of lower freight car loadings.

LESS THAN SEASONAL

The loss from the previous week of 77,872 cars, however, was less than the normal seasonal decline for that week. What figures are now available lead to the belief that the comparison for the first week of December will be found to have been more favorable.

The fall in copper prices from 12 to 11 cents a pound seemed to indicate that the large producers had decided that their recent jacking up of the domestic price from 9½ to 12 cents a pound had been too rapid. Most of them have withdrawn from the market entirely pending better demand.

The weakness in silver was another chastening aspect of the non-ferrous metal situation. The weekly petroleum statistics showed neither substantial cut in crude production, but gasoline stocks again increased, which was disappointing in view of the recent price heaviness.

3 Billions Paid Out on Policies

New York, Dec. 5—Over three billion dollars has been paid on account of living policy-holders and beneficiaries by the New York Life Insurance Company in the 85 years since organization, it was announced yesterday by Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the company.

Of this total, more than two billion dollars, or about two thirds, was paid for the benefit of living policy-holders in the form of dividends, matured endowments, surrender values, while over one billion dollars was paid to the beneficiaries of deceased policy holders.

Cotton Lower in New York Market

New York, Dec. 10—Cotton futures today closed 11 to 17 points lower: December, 10.02; January, 10.00. New contracts: December, 10.04; January, 10.07; March, 10.34 to 10.35; May, 10.59 to 10.60; July, 10.79 to 10.80; October, 10.96 to 10.98. Spot quiet; middling, 10.15.

Big November Drop in Share Values

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The market value of all shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange decreased $1,713,850,914 during November to a total of $83,311,850,703 as of Dec. 1.

PORT OF BOSTON

By JAMES J. DELANEY

Boston passenger sailings for Europe will total 5000 persons in three big ocean liners before the end of the week.

This will include three Christmas excursion parties, personally conducted by representatives of three lines, it is said.

The Berlin North German Lloyd Line, leaves for Galway, Boulogne and Bremen on Thursday.

The St. Louis, Hamburg-American combination, leaves for Galway, Cherbourg and Hamburg, Saturday. Capt. Robert Miss, former master of the Westphalia, is in command. Joseph Mohan, special representative, is in charge of the excursion party.

Among those on part are Charles Dockendorf, Regina Brown, Marian W. Anderson, Mrs. H. Hall, Mrs. Ida Bowen, Clara Latimer, Angela T. Clune, William P. Dooley, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Lavery and three children, Thomas Sheehan, John Kearns, Joseph Cunningham, Miss Margaret Moran, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Donegan and daughter Eunice Rose and John J. Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dicken and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick King, Michael Cullen, Mrs. Hanson, Michael J. Brennan, Della Keene, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mahoney, Mary M. Donovan, Margaret Joyce, Mrs. Ida W. Grossal, Mrs. Mary Lynch and son, Mrs. Frank Kelly, Thomas J. Kelly, Mary Cregan and child, Hanna Campbell, John O'Keefe and Miss Grady.

The Samaria, Cunard Line, leaves for Queenstown and Liverpool, Saturday.

NEW SERVICE

With the arrival of the Prince Robert, new British turbine liner, now on her maiden voyage across the Atlantic from Genoa, to the builders at Birkenhead, Eng., service from Boston to the West Indies will be started from here on December 9th by the Canadian National railways.

Frank Turner, agent of the company in Boston, made this announcement, stating that it had been the plan to put on the service next Monday with the Lady Drake.

The line has engaged a berthing station at Commonwealth pier, South Boston. Plans for the Prince Robert, which has a maximum speed of 23 knots, deluxe suites and a deck swimming pool, are to make three cruises in 34 days each from Boston to Bermuda, Jamaica and Havana, with direct returns to this port. Shore excursions are part of the plan, with automobile drives and sightseeing tours.

LONGSHOREMEN HOLDOUT

Boston longshoremen have not yet signed the working agreement, through the International Longshoremen's Association, with the Steamship Operators and Contracting Stevedores.

Conciliators at Halifax, N. E., and St. John, N. B., have accepted the same rates of pay during the coming winter as prevailed last year, the Maritime Association of the Chamber of Commerce, announces.

Halifax longshoremen will get 70 cents an hour for day work and 90 cents for night work. Those at St. John, where two shifts work day and night, both rates are 70 cents an hour.

HURRICANE GALE

A hurricane gale, which with bucking westerly and northwesterly gales and head seas for 15 days, delayed the arrival of the Hopedene, British steamer, on her passage for Swansea. She was 8 days late in making port, here, with a cargo of 5932 tons of anthracite coal from Wales. Capt. Charles C. Brown was in command.

LOADS OF LUMBER

With 4,438,000 ft. of lumber heaped on her decks and jammed into her holds, the Primero, Norwegian motorship, from New Westminster, B. C., chalked up a record for an unusually large cargo in this port. Most of the cargo will be discharged at the Wright & Cobb terminals, Charlestown, where she tied up.

Another lumber-laden voyager, the steamer Wind Rush from Portland and Portland, which unloaded part of her cargo at New York and Bridgeport, arrived also.

LADIES HAPPY

Expressing themselves as greatly pleased with their trip down Boston harbor and greatly impressed with the Long Island Hospital, a party of women from the Boston League of Women Voters, who sailed, early yesterday morning on the King Philip, arrived at the municipal pier, Eastern ave., last night. They are a group taking a course entitled "Adventures in Government," in order to acquaint themselves with their city institutions.

RADIO Personalities

It was 9 o'clock over WBZA; the Ipana Troubadours had just concluded their program when the WBZA announcer reminded us that according to Bulova it was exactly 7 o'clock. Our Bulova goes back tomorrow. . . FRANCIS D. BOWMAN of the Carborundum program selects the musical numbers for the programs, directs rehearsals, and all the continuity of the band. And is married as well. . . DR. FRANK H. VIZETELLY, NBC broadcaster who has a vocabulary of about 455,000 words, has read every page of the Standard Dictionary six times for each of its last 12 editions. He says an average vocabulary contains 2000 words and good conversation may be had with only 800. . . While the Musical Aviators play at the Aviation Grill in N. Y. numbered tickets are distributed to the dancers and the drawer of a lucky number is entitled to a free trip over N. Y. with TOM TRUESDALE, flying leader of the band. The other night CASEY JONES, famous war-ace drew a free ride.

Pianist Is Heard at 8:30 and Aviator Interviewed at 10:30

Two men, outstanding successes in their respective endeavors, will be heard on the air tonight on two different programs.

The first of the two heard is Percy Grainger, internationally famous pianist-composer, who returns to the radio by popular demand. Mr. Grainger, who will be heard over WEEI at 8:30 p. m., is making his final radio appearance before he starts on a concert tour of the United States. Among his selections Mr. Grainger will offer, first his own composition, "The Gum Suckers March." Other selections by the famous pianist include "Waltz of the Flowers," "Country Gardens" and the Tschaikowsky piano concerto—Last Movement.

In an interview with Grantland Rice, sports writer, Capt. Frank Hawks, American speed king of the air, will be heard over WEEI at 10:30 tonight. Hawks will have much to answer in the way of Rice's interview, for the aviator holds practically every air speed record in the country. Last August he broke Col. Lindberg's transcontinental record by more than two hours. He also holds the speed record between New York and Detroit. Besides his airplane activities, Capt. Hawks piloted the first glider across the country from March 20 to April 8 of this year. He flew from San Diego, Cal., to New York. The aviator's latest accomplishment was his record-breaking flight yesterday from New York to Washington, which took him exactly 58 minutes. His average speed for yesterday's air voyage was 288 miles an hour.

Benzine Substitute Invented in Germany

Berlin, Dec. 10 (US)—Bonalin, a synthetic fuel, has been invented by I. G. Farben, Germany's dye trust, as a cheap substitute for benzine and kerosene. It can be produced in large quantities at a low cost and will be placed on the market soon.

The synthetic fuel cannot be used for motors, however, but only for ordinary combustion. Nevertheless, I. G. Farben chemists hope to be able to use it as the basis for a new composition designed to supplant gasoline for motors.

Bars for Women of England Are Urged

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—Mrs. E. D. Simon, a member of the licensing commission, believes women should have bars of their own which men cannot patronize.

"Women sometimes like to meet their friends without men being present," she said at a hearing.

Bart Kennedy Dead

London, Dec. 10—Bert Kennedy the "tramp novelist," who fought Indians in the American Southwest and gold rushed in Alaska, meanwhile writing 20 books, is dead at the age of 69.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Congress Should Decree Immediate Deportation of All Undesirable Aliens

CONGRESS will be urged at this session to suppress racketeering.

The way to suppress racketeering is to suppress racketeers.

Racketeers and all other criminals come largely from two classes—undesirable ALIENS and uneducated AMERICANS.

Hence the way to rid the country of them is:

1.—To send undesirable aliens home; and

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of punishment.

UNDESIRABLE aliens have largely been driven out of their own countries and have flocked to America, as vermin are driven out by a housecleaning from one house to another.

It is time for America to have a housecleaning and to drive these vermin out of our house and back to their own.

Mr. Hoover thinks that existing laws, State and Federal, are sufficient to accomplish this, but they are not.

IN the last annual report of Secretary of Labor Davis there is this significant passage:

"I want to urge that the laws be amended so as to make possible the expulsion from the United States of certain classes of obviously undesirable aliens who are now immune from deportation.

"We have now a law for the deportation of criminals if their crimes involve moral turpitude, but it does not reach the great number of aliens who persistently violate other laws, both Federal and State, because it has been held that their offenses are not within the scope of the present law.

"They are a great obstacle in the way of law enforcement and through repeated convictions and imprisonments are a heavy burden on the public."

Furthermore, the Immigration act of March 4, 1929, Section 3, provides that "any alien sentenced to imprisonment SHALL NOT BE DEPORTED UNDER ANY PROVISION OF LAW UNTIL AFTER THE TERMINATION OF THE PUNISHMENT."

WHY NOT?

Why should aliens crowd our jails and live on our taxpayers?

In fact, why should any undesirable alien, unless it be one imprisoned for a capital crime, stay here on any pretext whatever?

Since new legislation is needed to deport such aliens, CONGRESS SHOULD PASS IT PROMPTLY AT THIS SESSION.

Mr. Hoover may be only interested in getting this country into foreign entanglements, but Congress can still take an interest in our own country and in the proper protection of our own people.

THE uneducated American is the other half of our crime problem.

Illiteracy is itself a crime, and the United States is criminally guilty for every one of the 5,000,000 illiterates within its borders.

When the Great War began there were more than 5,500,000 persons in this country ten years of age and over UNABLE TO READ OR WRITE.

This was 7.7 per cent of our total population.

This was less by only a few thousand than the total population ten years of age and over in all the New England States, or in the States of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California.

In double line of march at intervals of three feet the United States Commissioner of Education estimated that these more than 5,000,000 illiterates would extend over a distance of 1,567 miles—more than twice the distance from Washington to Jacksonville, Florida, or half way across the continent, from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The 1920 figures revealed that this country still had 4,931,905 persons over ten years of age who could neither read nor write. This was 6.1 per cent of our population. The 1930 figures have not yet been published, but there is no reason to think that the percentage of illiteracy has been greatly reduced.

RECENT crime surveys reveal that our criminal class, especially the new type of gangster, is largely composed of the young, many of them still in their teens at the time of their first conviction.

It is the illiterate or poorly educated, under-privileged child of yesterday that is so frequently found in the prison gang of today.

An ounce of prevention is worth a ton of punishment. Mere brutal punishment always has failed to prevent crime. It always will. Our prisons are full and running over, more prisons are being built and still more are being demanded.

Education and the fair start in life that it gives to the youth of the land will do more to prevent crime than all the punishment that ever could be devised by the bigots who are to blame for the Jones law passed by Congress and the Baumes laws passed by the State of New York.

ON Congress, therefore—on the Congress now in session—devolve these imperative duties:

1. To provide for the immediate deportation of all undesirable aliens, and to substitute selective immigration for the indiscriminate immigration which lets in so many undesirables.

2. To abolish illiteracy among Americans and promote education among all the States by establishing a Federal Department of Education, and in that way guarantee a fair chance in life for every American child.

Mr. Hoover will not recommend these desirable and necessary measures but Congress can pass them without recommendation, and if need be can pass them even over the President's veto.

Suggestions for the Bar

Why Not a Real Investigation?

A deep sense of moral rectitude has settled upon the Bar Association.

It proposes to investigate the understrappers and minor fixits who have conspired to collect unlawful, petty claims under the compulsory automobile liability insurance law.

So far, so good.

Our lawyers are largely responsible for the passage of all our laws, including those which vex the average citizen and those which give unscrupulous lawyers the opportunity to conspire and cheat, and they, therefore, ought to be the last to violate them and the first to clean their own house when the violations are common.

But the Bar Association should not stop there.

It might turn its attention to the fixit lawyers who prevail upon foolish, unfortunate derelicts of men to assume the responsibility, together with jail sentences, in the notorious take-the-rap cases.

Or it might conduct a public inquiry into the motives of those distinguished members of its profession who have framed the laws which permitted holding corporations, investment trusts or super-organizations to promote worthless securities or acquire public utilities and load them down with all sorts of outrageous fees and charges which the public must pay and which have been one of the contributing causes to a long period of depression with its consequent sufferings.

Generous, Thrifty

Two Fine Traits

Jewish generosity, like Jewish thrift, has seldom been put to a severer test than during the business depression. It is interesting but hardly surprising, therefore, to learn that Jewish gifts during the year have totaled some $38,000,000, of which about $6,000,000 were for educational purposes and $12,000,000 for civic advancement.

Among the outstanding benefactions are $5,000,000 by Louis Bamberger, of Newark, and his sister, Mrs. Louis Fuld, to establish the Institute of Advanced Study, and $10,000,000 by Maurice Falk, of Pittsburgh, to form the Maurice and Laura Falk Foundation for philanthropic purposes. Fay Block, of New York, the publisher, gave $100,000 to Yale University to organize and maintain a chair of journalism, [illegible] E. Kirsten, of Boston, contributed $200,000 to the Edward Kirsten Memorial Library for Boston business men; Marion Falk Levy, of Pittsburgh, with her brother, Leon Falk, Jr., donated a $325,000 model elementary school of the University of Pittsburgh—and so on. The list of useful benefactions made by Jewish citizens is endless.

There are slightly more than 4,000,000 Jews in the United States. Their contributions to worthwhile projects are out of all proportion to their number. It would be difficult to find four million other Americans who have profited as richly from the opportunities of this land of promise, or who have used their profits as wisely for the common welfare.

High Auto Taxation

Paste this item from the Boston News Bureau on the windshield of your car and read it every day when the [illegible] is in session:

"Each motorist in the United States will pay on the average $33 in motor taxes this year, as against $28.56 in 1929, an increase of 14 per cent, says the American Automobile Association."

One of the heavy elements of these taxes is the indefensibly high rates of the compulsory liability insurance, imposed upon every autoist in Massachusetts by the State Legislature.

The Legislature alone can grant relief. Watch it do it.

HE SAYS "GIMME," AND HE GETS

You have heard about the "opening of Congress." Here you see it.

There is little talk of national politics; nothing done. There is little talk about unemployment; nothing done.

But when this gentleman talks, there is action. He says "Gimme," and the cash is voted.

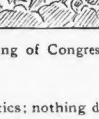
New York Day by Day -:- O. O. McIntyre

Watching Steel-workers and Riveters on 43-Story Building

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—An indoor caprice these wintry days is sitting at a window to watch steel workers and riveters on the top floor of a 43-storied building nearby. Through binoculars one may follow the dizzy exploits of men who have apparently conquered fear.

They are as sure-footed on a narrow beam spun high in the clouds as a cat on the prairie. In instances they jog along like Mexican peons over a mountain trail. Sometimes they teeter and sway in the swift wind so perilously that a watcher has to turn away.



At times they even grow prankish. This noon a number of them were lunching, their legs dangling in the air. A joker above sloshed them with a bucket of water. The slightest slip would have meant a rush to oblivion but everybody laughed heartily.

One of their casual stunts is to pass each other on a slim beam. They grip shoulders and with a turn, like the quick spin of a waltz, go on their way. A few of them have mascots, a dog or cat, that follows about with the same sureness.

A disaster is costly to contractors. If a steel worker falls, it is the invariable custom for the rest to knock off for the day. The experts are mostly cigarette smokers but rarely drink. Booze and steeplejacking do not mix. Buttermilk is the favorite tipple.

* * *

The majority of the intrepid art sans are married, devoted family men with highly developed sentimentalities. They know that each day offers the hazard of being their last. Frequently their wives by appointment wave to them from the sidewalks.

As a rule they are farm-bred boys who acquired the sturdiness hard work and life in the open give. Their big task is one of concentration. They train themselves to reject any suggestion of fear or thought of a false step.

Those quaint beer cottages with Bavarian fronts, once confined in the Yorkville German section, are now blooming in the Furious Forties. They feature such dishes as pig knuckles with sauer kraut, schmeer-kase and the like and flagons of brew that taste like the real article. The hat check girl in one insisted on a patron taking the check she offered last night.

In old Greenwich Village days there were Tiny Tim and his "soul" candy; Sonia, the cigarette girl; Harry Kemp, the tramp poet; Bellamy Edwards thrumming masochistic blues on his cigar box ukulele; Clivette, the man in black; Peter, the frocked airbou-ette cutter, and Talchiro, the hatless Japanese futurist. And whither have they scattered? Bruno's bool shop and Grace Godwin's candle-spluttering garrett are also no more. Only the Black Cat and Madam Bernlohr's remain. Like beloved Broadway the song laments, "The Village" is a fake, it's a phoney.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Hooray for Sect. 887!

DETECTIVE JOHN KELLY knows better now.

It all started with that recent vicering expose. Certain underworld lechers were combining with worthless policemen to frame monied mamas, then exact hush-money and split the profits. The game went something like this: Word would go around that Mrs. Bessie Brown had a neat wad and would be easy to shake down.

Elsie Robinson

Nine times out of ten, Mrs. Bessie was a respectable matron, with no more vice to her than a cup custard. But a bit bored and silly. The way you get when you're beginning to touch up the roots and wear outsizes. So, when, quite by chance, an ingratiating male scraped up an acquaintance, and suggested a harmless little chat in some Nice, Quiet Place—Well, the best of us go blooey sometimes.

The rest was as easy as taking candy from a kid. No sooner had the fluttering, simpering Mrs. Bessie arrived at the trysting place than in barged the cops, arrested the terrified lady and were only bought off with great, great reluctance.

Which, when it came out, made plenty of row, particularly among New York's club women and civic leaders. All of which Detective John Kelly—being an earnest young man, took to heart. Reading up, he discovered that under Section 887, Subdivision 4F, of the penal code, the man in such cases was equally guilty with the woman. So the next time he found it necessary to make such an arrest he brought in the Gentleman Friend with her. And naturally expected recognition of his services.

He got it!

The Gentleman Friend was promptly dismissed and the girl held for Jefferson Market Court.

And the big news in this story isn't the fact that Section 887 was violated, but that there should be such a section at all.

They say that humans are about 30,000,000 years old. And for about 29,999,990 of those years men have played and women have paid. On the theory that what was felony for women was just play for the men. And while boys must be boys, girls mustn't be girls.

Section 887 throws a monkey wrench into this delightful arrangement. We're realizing, at last, that a bad man is exactly on a par with a bad woman. If she is a menace, so is he. If she should be punished as a nuisance, so should the male who maintains that nuisance. Then maybe, in time, we'll begin to get civilization.
